MEMORIAL DAY

Observed With Proper Services in This City.

PARADE AND BICYCLE RACES

Co. B, G. A. R. and P. O. S. of A., Take Part in the Parade, Led by the Bellefonte Band—Teats, Larimer and Lou Mills Prove Winners in the Bicycle Races.

A. O. FURST THE ORATOR OF THE DAY

Memorial Day was observed in this city last Saturday with ceremonies appropriate to the day. Business was practically suspended for several hours during the afternoon and evening, and the streets were thronged with people who, as soon as the parade passed, made the city of the dead their mecca.

An interesting feature of the day, and one which preceded the parade, was the bicycle races, under the direction of Paul Sheffer. The course was from the diamond to the store at Axe Mann and return, a distance of about four miles. Three races were run: one for colored riders, another for white riders, and a third for boys.

The race for colored riders was won by Lou Mills; time, 18 minutes. Will Mills 2d, and Clarence Williams 3d.

The race for white riders was won by John Teats, with Bruce Barnhart 2d and Jesse Underwood 3d.

The last race was for boys and was won by Charles Larimer, with Harry Larimer 2d and Clarence Otto 3d.

At 2 o'clock the parade began to form in the following order: Bellefonte band; carriages containing the orator of the day, Hon. A. O. Furst, Chaplain James Harris, of the G. A. R., and J. C. Meyer, Esq.; followed by Co. B, 5th Regt., N. G. P.; Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R., and Patriotic Sons of America.

Promptly at 2:30 the parade started, moving over the following route:

Allegheny to Bishop, Bishop to Spring, Spring to Howard, and thence to the Union cemetery.

The parade and services at the cemetery were under the charge of the Post Commander, David Bartley.

At the cemetery a square was formed around four graves of old comrades, with the colors in the centre, and service was opened by the Commander.

A quartette, composed of Messrs. C. C. Shuey, A. Lukenbach, George L. Smith and Walter Whippo, sang very sweetly, and an earnest prayer was made by James Harris, Chaplain of the Post. The orator of the day, ex-Judge A. O. Furst, delivered an eloquent address, in which he paid a high tribute to the veterans of the late war who risked death for their country's cause, and also spoke of the great good which had resulted from their victory. He wound up his address with a very touching tribute to that old hero, Andrew G. Curtin, whose remains lie buried in this cemetery.

J. C. Meyer, Esq., of this city, also made a very eloquent and interesting address along the same line, which was highly appreciated by all present.

At the close of the services the column reformed and marched back to the diamond, where they were dismissed by Commander Bartley.

A Pleasant Duty.

When I know anything worthy of recommendation I consider it my duty to tell it," says Rev. Jas. Murdock, of Hamsburg, Pa. "Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder has cured me of Catarrh of five years standing. It is certainly magical in its effect. The first application benefited me in five minutes. I would not be without it in the house."

A Runaway on Nittany Mountain.

On Saturday night last, about 11 o'clock, while on their way back from taking part in the Memorial Day services at Potter's Mills, Hugh Taylor and Samuel Gettig met with quite an experience. They had nearly reached the top of Nittany mountain when they saw a horse and buggy coming towards them driven by a woman. Just behind Taylor and Gettig came the Pleasant Gap band, on their way back from Centre Hall, making the mountains echo with their music. The horse driven by the woman hearing this became frightened and, wheeling in the road, started to run away. The woman became frightened and cried "For God's sake stop this horse." Taylor and Gettig being soldiers are naturally brave men, and at once went to the rescue of the lady in distress. The horse did not run far but began to prance and back, threatening every moment to upset the buggy and throw its fair occupant out. The men soon overtook her and succeeded in quieting the horse, but the lady refused to ride any farther, and resumed her journey to Centre Hall by foot, leaving the horse and buggy for Messrs. Taylor and Gettig to bring back to Bellefonte, where it belonged.

Business Block Burned.

READING, Pa., May 30.—Fire of origin unknown, which was discovered in a Penn street business block at midnight last night, did damage to the extent of over $15,000. S. L. Goldren's hat store was completely burned out, and H. R. Boyer's millinery stock, worth $20,000, was badly damaged. The stock of John McGowan, gentlemen's furnishings, suffered from smoke. James Kleinschmid, Samuel Wentzel, William Goeltz and several other firemen were badly hurt.

"Almighty Voice" Slain.

Winnipeg, Man., May 31.—Almighty Voice and the two Indian murderers who have been holding Bellevue Bluff near Duck La e for the past two days against the mounted police, were killed yesterday. A rush was made on the bluff about 3 o'clock, and an Indian was slain. It was found that Almighty Voice and another Indian had been killed by the shells fired earlier in the day. The rebellious Indians have been brought in. The father of Almighty Voice is under arrest here as an accomplice. No further trouble is anticipated.

Funeral of A. C. Howley.

The funeral of the late Andrew C. Howley took place Saturday morning at ten o'clock from St. Johns Catholic church on Bishop street. There was a large attendence of sorrowing friends and relatives and the floral tributes were very beautiful. An earnest funeral sermon was preached by Rev. P. McArdle, in which he spoke very highly of the many good qualities of the deceased. The pall-bearers were Harry Fenlon, C. M. Parrish, John Beezer, P. A. King, Orvis Gillen and Jacob Gross. Interment in Catholic cemetery.

Star Lecture Course.

We understand the popular "Star Lecture Course," which proved so enjoyable as well as highly educational when given a few years ago is to be resumed this fall and winter. We hope the public will aid those who have the course in charge and encourage it by a liberal patronage. The best lectures as well as the finest concerts we ever had in Bellefonte were in the former two courses and we have no doubt the coming one will be equally as fine.

A Deserving Man.

One of the most deserving men in our town is James E. Solt, the crippled shoemaker. He complains that he does not have work half the time. There are men in this town who wont work if they have a chance, but Mr. Solt is not one of them. He is willing to work and support his family if he only has half a chance. Give him a called when you want any repairing done and you will not regret it.

YOUNG PEOPLE KILLED

A Fatal Accident at Valley Stream, Long Island.

FIVE PERSONS LOSE THEIR LIVES

A Tally-Ho Party Struck By a Railroad Train—Names of the Dead and Injured.

HAD GONE FOR A PLEASANT OUTING

NEW YORK, May 31 —Five young people were killed and a number of others injured in an accident which occured this afternoon at Valley Spring, L. I. A. tally-ho. with a party of twenty-one excursionists from Greene avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, which started out for a day's outing through Long Island, was struck by a train on the Long Island railroad at the Morrick boulevard crossing, and the following persons were instantly killed: George F. Fishley, jr.. William Gilchrist, jr., Winslow Lewis, Lester E. Roberts, Miss Dora Burch, all of Brooklyn.

The injured were, Emma Brugge, Clara Stuart, Mrs Anna Andrews, Lawrence Barnes, jr., Walter Wallbrock, John Lewis, Edward McCormick, Earl Barnes, Miss Fashley, Tillie Horn, Edna Fulmer, Richard Bates, Bessie Gilson, Miss Ray Stillman.

Some of the dead were frightfully mangled. The body of Lester W. Roberts was ground to pieces. The body of Miss Burch was also badly mangled. Winslow Lewis had his neck broken, both legs were broken and his head was badly gashed and he was severely cut about the body.

The crash came almost without warning and the occupants of the coach had no time to make any effort to escape. Before the most of them knew of the impending danger the train was upon them and the coach was upset and the engine pushing it along the rails, the dead and injured being cut and mangled beneath it.

The train which struck the tally-ho was bound east from Minola. It was not running fast when the accident happened, and accounts differ as to whether the whistle was blown. The team of the tally-ho had crossed the track and had the front wheels of the coach upon the rails when the pilot of the engine wag seen by the driver. He gave the horses a cut with the whip, but it was too late, and a moment later the crash came. A heavy engine, driven forward by the momentum, raised the coach and its load of persons from the ground and hurled it flat. As the engine came in sight two men of the party uttered screams, which were ended by the crash, and then followed by screams, of agony. When the engine struck the coach, the occupants were in all positiona, as they had started to jump to their feet upon realizing their danger. Some had gained their feet while others had made an effort to reach the side steps. Others were too frightened to move and had clutched the seats or the side rail and waited for the crash.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. Students Fought Troops.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 30.—While two companies of local militia were standing their annual inspection on the athletic grounds of the South Carolina college here Friday afternoon, a foul ball struck by a student engaged in a game of base ball at the other end of the grounds, struck the horse of Major B. B. Evans, an officer on Adjutant General Watts' staff. The militia had only been given permission to use half of the grounds; but Gen. Watts immediately requested the ball players to withdraw until the troops could march past in quitting the field.

This the students refused to do, and the police declining to interfere, General Watts ordered the troops to advance. The students resisted and some broke through the line. A general riot followed, in the course of which a policeman was knocked senseless and a student named McColl had his head crushed, from the effects of which he may die.

Professor of History, R. Means Davis, interfered and was knocked down by a student, and two soldiers were knocked down. The soldiers advanced at right shoulder arms and were hardly to blame. They simply obeyed orders.

The police being powerless, the faculty finally quieted their students and the soldiers were marched back to their armories. When seen by a press representative to-night Adjutant General Watts declined to say anything.

Last Plea for Durrant's Life.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., May 30.—Theodore Durrant, the convicted murderer of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams, will not know his fate at the hands of Governor Budd before Monday. The executive is at Sacramento, completing the task of overlooking the testimony. The impression prevails that he will not interfere.

Governor Budd has heard every witness that appeared after the trial was concluded; heard the story of every crank that swore that he had killed Blanche Lamont, or that he had seen some one other than Durrant do it, and has spent a day in the rooms where the two bodies were found.

Only two persons were denied audience by the governor. They were the convicted man and his mother. Mrs. Durrant called on Governor Budd's mother and for several hours pleaded with her to intercede. Mrs. Budd was in tears after the interview.

Use of Wine at Princeton.

EAGLE LAKE, Ind., May 28.—The Presbyterian General Assembly, which adjourned to-night, was the shortest session in eight years. In spite of the desire to finish up its business there was little unusual haste. At the afternoon session a memorial to Congress was adopted, asking for official investigation of the liquor traffic.

A sharp debate came on the report as to the use of wine at the alumni banquet at the sesqui centenial anniversary of Princeton University.

The discussion waxed hot, and points of order became numerous. Presently the Assembly got into the worst parliamentary tangle that it had experienced when a commissioner moved the previous question. Even on a rising vote the Moderator could not decide. Then came a storm of question and speeches. The Moderator forgot the state of business, and the decision of the previous question was left hanging, though the original mover tried to withdraw his motion.

The confused discussion lasted till within a few moments of adjournment, when the whole matter was disposed of by a motion to lay it on the table, which was adopted by an overwhelming vote.

WINTERSTEEN'S DEFENSE

The Dynamite Trial Resumed at Bloomsburg.

WINTERSTEEN MADE MANY THREATS

Counsel for the Prosecution Attacks the Reputation of Clifton Knorr and Sally Gast.

DID KNORR HAVE AN ACCOMPLICE

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 1.—The trial of Lloyd S. Wintersteen, who is charged with an attempt to murder by dynamiting the residence of Levi P. Waller, was resumed today, the prosecution resting in the f ternoon, when A. S. L. Shields, of Philadelphia, opened for the defense.

Mr. Shields said they would prove that Wintersteen had no motive for the crime; that Knorr's testimony was largely false; that Mrs. Sally Gast was known as a consummate liar, who had no religious belief and upon whom no oath was binding, and finally that Knorr had an accomplice on the night of the explosion; that they were heard talking together under a window, and when they separated they took different trains out of town.

Mrs. L. S. Wintersteen, wife of the defendant, was the first witness called. She testified that Kate Davis, the servant who testified to having heard the defendant threaten Waller's life, had been discharged by the witness and that her testimony was false.

O. B. Mellick, an attorney, testified that P. G. Miller used the word "knife" and not "bullet" when speaking of the threat Wintersteen had made.

Emma Wickel, of Reading, who acknowledged that she had kept a disorderly house, testified that both Knorr and Sally Gast always carried revolvers and that the Gast woman carried the weapon in her stocking. She also swore she saw dynamite in their possession in 1894.

Jacob Phillippi, of Reading, testified that he lived next door to Sally Gast, and that she was known as the greatest liar in Reading. He said he saw two sticks of dynamite in her house while Knorr was there. He also saw Knorr sneaking about the place and hiding when the bell rang, and at times her saw him wearing a false mustache and hair.

At the morning session of court the Commonwealth produced additional testimony concerning threats made by Wintersteen. W. H. Snyder, a prominent lawyer, swore that Wintersteen told him that he would willingly serve 20 years in the penitentiary to put a bullet through Waller's heart.

Theodore Conner, a bookkeeper for the Keystone Manufacturing company, of which Wintersteen is a director, corroborated Snyder's testimony.

I. D. White, a prominent merchant of this place and a former manager in the Bloomsburg Car Company's store, of which Wintersteen was one of the owners, swore that he heard the defendant say he would like to meet Waller in a dark alley and kill him.

Will Begin Work This Week.

It's a go! Bellefonte's new industry seems to be an assured fact now. On Monday Charles Morris and his father, A. G. Morris, of Tyrone, were in Bellefonte, and, accompanied by Thomas Morris, of this place, visited Armor's Gap and laid out the ground for the buildings for the new Acetylene Gas works. Mr. Thomas Morris is the authority for the statement that work will be commenced this week on the foundations for the buildings and it will be pushed to completion as fast as possible. All the buildings will be of brick and stone.

John T. Reamy Dead.

A Centre County Man Succumbs to His Injuries at Tyrone,

John T. Reamy, who was seriously injured by a fall occasioned by the breaking of a scaffold in the round house where he was working, on May 5 last, after lingering for nearly 4 weeks succumbed to the results of his accident and passed away at five minutes before 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, at his home in Tyrone,

John Thomas Reamy was born in Centre county July 6, 1856, his age at death being 40 years, 10 months and 26 days. He was reared by his grand-mother at Houserville. and spent all his life in Centre county until he removed to Tyrone eleven years ago. On February, 1878, he was united in marriage to Miss Sallie E. Koch. One daughter, Miss Nellie, of Bellefonte, survives this union. On October 12, 1882, at Pennsyvania Furnace, Mr. Reamy was married to Miss Ella M. Musser, who survives him, together with five children, Mary A., Edward M., Austin S., Nancy M. and Edith M., all at home. The mother of the deceased, Mrs Matilda Rider, is also still living at Seneca, Michigan.

Mr. Reamy was a carpenter and had been in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad for sixteen years. He resided at Unionville from 1883 to 1886, and in the latter year removed with his family to Tyrone where he has remained ever since. He was an exemplary man and a good citizen. Devoted to his family and country, he was also loyal to his Master, having been a consistent and faithful member of the First Presbyterian church where he was regular in his attendance and devotion at all services, taking a special interest in the pastor's bible class of which he was a member from the beginning. Mr. Reamy was a member of W. C. No. 327 P. O. S. of A., and of the Pennsyvania R. R. Relief association. In politics he was a Republican, but never sought office, though his fellow citizens elected him to council two years ago, and he served his term faithfully.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon. Interment in Tyrone cemetery—Tyrone Herald.

The Drill to go Deeper.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Clinton county gas and oil company was held yesterday to discuss the question o drilling the test well in Gallaher township to a depth of 3,500 feet. When the drill ceased operations on Saturday the well was 3,150 feet deep and the drill was working in oil sand, which had a strong odor of petroleum. The indications were considered so favorable that the company decided to continue the drilling until a depth of 3,500 feet has been reached. If a flow of oil is not struck before that depth is reached, them the well will be shot.

The well will be shot at three different depths from the surface, favorable indications having been observed in several sands while the drilling was proceeding. The drilling will be resumed tomorrow morning, and as the work proceeds the operations will be watched closely and the result awaited with great interest. The men who have invested their money in the project are so confident of success attending further efforts that they are willing to invest still more capital and continue the drilling to a depth of 3,500 feet.—L. H. Express.

Apple Crop in Clearfield.

From Clearfield county comes the report that notwithstanding the great prospect of a big apple crop a short time ago, the indications now are that the production will be only moderate if not below the average. Many trees that blossomed profusely have no growing fruit. The cold and frequent rains destroyed the poilen in many blossoms, and the enormous crop last year further accounts for the shortage this year.

THE EDITOR'S WIFE.

Great was the consternation when the rumor was circulated through the office that Harding was to be married —"actually married to a woman," as Edkins remarked, in a voice of mingled pity and contempt, as he imparted the news to Judkins, the night editor.

Every one was disgusted, for wasn't Harding the exclusive property of the Advocate's men?

And to share him with any woman was beyond all question.

"Fun's all up," dolefully remarked Judkins, as he buried his hands deep in his pockets, and blessed his stars for his own unattached condition.

"Just imagine Harding's rooms with a woman in 'em," in a voice of utter contempt. "No more midnight gatherings there, my boy; no Welsh rarebit, no cards, with a seasoning of smoke—oh, hang it, no nothing. Tidies, and ribbon, and bric-a-brac, and goodness knows what, wherever you step. Just a little call, and 'Good evening, Mrs. Harding; no, can't stop, have an assignment,' and off, leaving Harding trying to look happy, with a silk scarf twisted round his neck, and his feet plumb up against some other work of art. Hang it, what is the man thinking of?" and Judkins started up as if he would go to the protection of his misguided fellow editor.

But that same misguided young man seemed in no apparent need of protection, for he laughed and joked with the boys in his old-time manner, and when Judkins's dismal prognostications were related to him his amusement knew no bounds. Then and there he invited them to just come up and see, when he was married, for "I'll warrant you," he said, "that Mrs. H. will prove a strong rival to my box of Arcadian mixture, to which Edkins is so attached, and every blessed one of you will wish you were in my shoes before the first evening is over, for"—and here Harding, for the first time in the history of the office, descended to the trite and commonplace—"she isn't like other girls, you know—she——"

But here an explosion of pent-up wrath burst from the group, and Harding was suddenly ejected from the office, and as he stared blankly at the closed doors, behind which came most undignified sounds, he was heard to murmur:

"I wonder what I said," which goes to prove that even a callous editor is sometimes human.

* * * * *

But this was all a year ago. Now Harding was safely married. The boys were sure of that. As a proof of their devotion they had suffered themselves to appear in evening dress at the wedding; had been properly presented to the bride as "the boys, you know," and after paying due attention to the pretty bridesmaids, they had retired to the office, and there held secret conclave over glasses and pipes, and there early morning had found them, still wondering how any sane man could be so insane as Harding had been.

* * * * *

Now things were different. "She isn't like other women," Judkins had reluctantly admitted after their first call.

"She really isn't, you know; and I guess, after all, it won't be so bad. She's almost one of us, you know, only somehow better and sweeter, and all that, and I shouldn't wonder if we'd better ease up a little on Harding."

And so, to quote Judkins, she was "almost one of them."

Harding's rooms had never seemed so hospitable as now, his big chairs never so tempting, and nights when the boys couldn't drop in for a moment's chat, at least, were off nights with them.

"I tell you it braces a fellow up," Edkins explained, in apology, the second time Judkins found him there.

"She's so awfully interested in all that we do, you know, and gives a fellow lots of tips. She ought to be on the paper herself, and I told her so, but, bless you, she blushed, and asked if I didn't think that she was better adapted to making chocolate, and handed me a cup, just as I like it, and as no one else on earth can make it but she."

"That finished you, old boy, of course," and Judkins laughed.

"But, honestly, you're right. Harding has improved wonderfully, and your pet column has gone up 50 per cent., and the society stuff isn't half as tame.

"We're almost up to the Vindicator now, and if it wasn't for the confounded scoops they get on us we'd lead the town; but I say, Ed"—and here Judkins paused and glanced down the street, as if he feared the approach of some one—"it seems kind of mean to say it, but did you ever think that Harding isn't just square with his wife, but makes deals with that woman on the Vindicator staff?

"No, I'm not crazy," as his companion stopped short and faced him.

"I've been looking this thing up, and if it wasn't for Mrs. H. I'd give the town the biggest sensation in years.

"It would mean discharge to Harding and promotion to me, and, hang it, if it isn't a temptation. But there is that wife of his; somehow"—and he spoke slowly—"somehow I don't like to hurt her.

"Oh! yes, I've got facts," as Edkins started to interrupt him.

"Mat upset the waste basket on my desk one morning, and didn't pick all the scraps up, and there on my desk was a letter signed 'Daisy.' Thought I'd have a chance to guy some of you fellows, so I read it.

"'Twas from the editorial rooms of the Vindicator, and was addressed to Harding, and said, 'Meet me at 1 in the park. I must see you. Daisy.'

"You could have knocked me flat, but I followed it up by sending a boy to follow Harding. I knew enough not to follow him myself, and he came back with a full account of Harding meeting a veiled lady in the park, and they stood for a long time in a secluded spot talking very eagerly, and Harding held her hand, and, as the boy expressed it, looked 'sweet' at her.

"Then I put that with the fact that Harding was the only one who could get an interview with the Vindicator on that Maybee affair, and every one knows that the power behind the throne there is a woman. And it strikes me that we have a pretty plain case. Harding is struck on the girl, and she is playing with him for the benefit of the Vindicator.

"See, my boy?"

Edkins drew a deep breath.

"Yes, I see what you say, and if it's true, by jingo, Judkins, we'll thrash Harding, that is all.

"I'm off," and Edkins departed with an abruptness that was unusual, even to that eccentric individual.

The story grew, as it was whispered from man to man, and there was an uneasiness in the little circle that was wont to gather at the Hardings', for all save Harding and his wife were acutely conscious of what the others were thinking. They alone were bright and cheery.

But the plot deepened as young Foster, who had been simply tolerated as a clever young fellow by the older men, became a frequent caller at the Hardings.

"The boy is in love," was the verdict of the older men, "and now we're in a mess, and how are we going to get out of it?"

Affairs were in this condition when one night Judkins and Edkins reached the Hardings' earlier than usual to find Harding very ill at ease, and his wife's face flushed and her eyes bright.

There was an awkwardness for a few moments, which even Mrs. Harding, with her quickly recovered composure, was unable to dispel.

Suddenly, without the least ceremony, the door opened and young Foster walked in.

He hardly noticed the men, but walked straight to where Mrs. Harding sat in her low chair by the teatable, and, kneeling down beside her, he caught her hand in his and raised it to his lips.

The faces of the men wore a puzzled expression, and Judkins burst out, "It's time this thing was cleared up! For heaven's sake, Harding, what is it all about?"

"This is what it's all about," young Foster's manly voice rang out, without giving his superior editor a chance to speak.

"It means that you are an old duffer, Judkins, with your clues and your stories, and all that. Harding here is the only sane man on the paper.

"The nice little story you trumped up is all bosh, for here is your Vindicator girl whom Harding is struck on," and he smiled down into the face of Editor Harding's wife.

"Yes, you fellows," he continued, "this is your 'girl' who managed all the scoops, and 'played with Harding' for the information she got.

"She's the smartest newspaper woman in this country, and the best woman in the world.

"Do you know what she has done?

"No, of course you don't; you've been to busy ferreting out your mystery.

"Well, every blessed one of those scoops you thought stolen she worked out for herself, and had it all in copy before you ever dawdled here and gossiped about it.

"And when she might have had the biggest scoop of all, and been known the country over, and had her price for it all, she gave it up, gave up her position on the Vindicator, all because it touched the honor of one of our men. As she told the managing editor, when she absolutely refused to give the names he asked:

"'I have been an editor, but, thank God, before I was that, and, despite of it, I have been a woman also, and I am Editor Harding's wife, and I will not betray the good name of one of his men.'"

The strong voice broke. "It was my father's name," he continued, "and now my father is dead."

There was a silence for a moment.

Then it was broken by the sweet voice of Editor Harding's wife.

"You take two lumps, I believe, Mr. Edkins? You see I remember."

* * * * *

"Which goes to show," said Judkins, as they trudged home an hour later, "that really 'she isn't like other women'."

HE AND HIS FAMILY WERE OFTEN ON THE BRINK OF STARVATION.

Suffering Shortened His Life, but Never Weakened His Enthusiasm. He Was the Son of a Farmer and Worked at the Plow Until Eighteen Years Old.

Jean Francoise Millet has for the the first time been put adequately before the reading public by Julia Cartwright, whose handsome octavo volume, "Jean Francoise Millet: His Life and Letters" (Macmillian), is a carefully written and appreciative review of his life and works.

For in Millet's case, as Miss Cartwright points out, the man and the artist were bound closely together.

His first masterpieces were rejected by the jury of the Salon. The pictures which now fetch their thousands were sold for a few pounds to buy bread for his children. Pitiful as the story is, it is none the less noble and inspiring. His sufferings saddened and shortened his life, but they did not crush his spirit or weaken the message which he hod to give.

It is a pretty story, that of the budding forth of the boy's genius. Always impressionable to the wonders of nature, the vague stirrings in his heart found expression at last through the sight of some old engravings in an illustrated Bible. Then he tried his hand at drawing the objects around the fields. While his father slumbered on a couch at his side, Francois would sketch the cows, the sheep, the trees. Often the father, waking from his sleep, would get up and take a peep at the drawing on which the boy was intently engaged, and return softly to his place without disturbing him, well pleased to see this new development of his son's powers.

But it set him to serious thinking. One Sunday when the lad was about eighteen years old, he spoke to him and asked him whether he wished to be a painter. Francois answered in the affirmative. Then with a kindness that the youth never forgot, the elder Millet said:

"My poor Francois, I see that this idea has taken hold of you. I should like to have sent you long ago to learn this trade of a painter, which people say is such a fine thing, but it was impossible. You were the eldest of four boys, and I could not do without you. But now that your brothers are growing up I will no longer hinder you from learning what you are so anxious to know. We will go to Cherbourg and see if you have really enough talent to be able to earn a living."

At Cherbourg they called upon an artist named Bon Dumoucel. The latter saw at a glance the originality and merit of the country lad's productions.

"You are laughing at me," he said roughly; "you don't mean to tell me that this young man made those drawings by himself!"

"Yes, certainly," said the father gravely, "I saw him make them myself."

"I don't believe it," returned Dumoucel. "I see that the method is awkward, but as for the composition, I repeat, it is impossible."

When at last the incredulous artist was convinced, he turned to the father and exclaimed:

"Well, then, all I can say is you will be damned for having kept him so long at the plow, for your boy has the making of a great painter in him."

And he agreed on the spot to take Francois as his pupil. Later came the 12 years' stay in Paris, the painful apprenticeship to art, the still more painful effort to obtain recognition. Time after time his pictures were rejected by the Salon. He was now a husband and a father. In his dire need he accepted whatever orders he could get, and painted signs and portraits for the smallest sums. Even then he had great difficulty to get paid, and often met with harsh and cruel treatment.

His wife died. He married again under a temporary but illusionary gleam of sunshine. Then darkness once more fell upon the little family. So late as 1848 a kind-hearted artist, learning of his plight, raised 100 francs for him from the minister of the interior, who was likewise the head of the administration of fine arts. At that time all Paris was talking of his pictures, but, alas! not buying them.

Some of his sketches now found a small sale. These were mostly of nude subjects. But one day he happened to overhear two youths speaking of a pastel he had already sold, representing two women in a bath.

"A man named Millet painted it," said one. "He does nothing but paint naked women."

The words were a shock to the unwilling eavesdropper. His friends had often admired his nude figures and praised his skill in flesh color. But never until that moment had he realized that upon them depended his chief reputation as an artist. His soul rose up in horror.—New York Herald.

His Vast Experience.

A New York school boy, in an essay on his favorite authors, says: "Should I be asked to select a library of my favorite books, I should name Scott's Dickens's, Cooper's, Irving's, Porter's Shakespeare's, Eliot's and Hawthorne's works." It is doubtful if that school boy is entirely frank in naming George Eliot and Shakespeare; they look like a concession to the teacher's "prejudices." But the following is perfectly honest, and is a gem: "As a rule boys are fond of works of adventure, and I am no exception to the rule. It is only natural that young people seeing so much of domestic life, do not care to read about it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

STRANGE COLOR PHOTOGRAPHS.

A Process in Which No Pigments or Colored Washes are Used.

The London Times says a private exhibition was given a day or two ago of some of the results obtained by the new process of color photography which has been devised by a Cornish man, Mr. Bennetto. The methods and indeed the principle employed, remain the secret of the inventor, and it is intended that they shall remain so until several more details and applications of the invention have been more fully worked out. All that is at present known is that the inventor, who has been occupied with the subject for the last eight years, claims to have discovered the first true and direct system of color photography by which can be transformed to a photographic negative and thence printed on glass or paper the exact natural colors of the object toward which the camera has been directed. He employs no pigments, his plates have not to be washed with various colored solutions, and it is not necessary to view his pictures through any combinations of tinted glasses. The colors are imprinted on the plate just as are the light and shade in an ordinary monochrome photograph and are directly visible to the eye. It may be mentioned that Mr. Bennetto in his earliest experiments could get no effects with a less exposure than three minutes; now he is able to work with exposures of sixteen seconds.

Whatever may have been the methods used, the pictures produced by them attain a high standard of excellence. One of the best specimens shown was a study of a sunrise, taken early one morning in the middle of June, 1895, in which the fiery orange of the dawn and the heavy masses of clouds were admirably represented. The clouds, again, were excellent in a typical picture of Cornish seashore scenery, and the tints of the sand and rocks and their reflections in the pools were faithfully reproduced. On the other hand, in some pictures flowers were rather lacking in lustre. Possibly this is a question of exposure. Perhaps the picture which best illustrated the capabilities of the process was one of a champagne bottle standing on a white tablecloth and surrounded with various fruits. Here there were three or four different whites which were all distinguishable, but which it would probably have taxed the powers of any artist to represent by painting. The gold foil on the bottle was exactly rendered, and it was possible to tell that it was full by the prismatic gleam of the liquid. The one unsatisfactory thing in the picture was a spoon, whose sparkle was quite lost; it looked as if it might have been made of cardboard, covered with dull silver paper. The inventor looks forward, among other things, to revolutionizing by this process the illustration of books and magazines, and hopes to show in the future how to flash a picture on a screen so that a permanent copy may be left behind.

Hunting Down South.

The most patient man on earth and the most uncommunicative is the cracker of Florida,

I employed one to go with me and carry my traps on a deer hunt. I had been informed that there were plenty of of the animals near a certain swamp. I accosted a native:

"I am informed that there are deer in this section?"

"Yaas."

"Are there?"

"Yaas."

"Can I hire you to carry my luggage?"

"Yaas."

We got ready, and I asked:

"What direction?"

"Don't keer."

We tramped all day, cracker carrying the traps and not saying a word. We camped out at night, the cracker building a fire and cooking supper. The next day we found no indication of deer, and still the cracker said nothing. That night I asked:

"How soon do you think we will find any deer?"

"Never."

"I thought you said there were plenty?"

"Not hyar."

"Well, where are they?"

"T'other side swamp."

"Why didn't you say so long ago?" I asked, angrily.

"Yo' never axed me."

The next morning we retraced our steps and two days later reached the other side of the swamp without another word from the cracker. We had not been there an hour before I killed a fine buck, and we secured four the first day. It was a beautiful hunting-ground, and I was surprised to suddenly come upon a large residence.

I could not understand how the deer remained so close.

"Who lives there?" I asked the cracker.

"Jedge Simmons."

"Who is he?"

"The man as owns this park and these deer."

I did not wait to interview the Judge, but paid the cracker and left that part of the State.—New York World.

A Misnomer.

The stage manager was thoughtful.

"I think we'd better cut that line," he said.

"What line?" asked the leading man.

"The one that reads 'Apparel oft proclaims the man.'"

"I don't see why. It has come down to us without protest from the day that Shakespeare wrote it until now," said the manager, irritable, "of course it was all right when it was written. There were no girls in knickerbockers then, and very likely there was a good deal of truth in it."—Pearson's Weekly.

Child Insurance.

HARRISBURG, May 25.—The joint e gislative committee that has for its function the investigation of the child insurance scandal held its first open session this afternoon, Representative Wilson presiding.

Senator Kauffman told of a conference at the Hotel Bellevue, Philadelphia, at which he had been informed that $50,000 had been demanded from the Metropolitan Insurance company to kill the child insurance bill. At this conference there were present besides himself, Senators Gobin and Flinn, Vice President Haley Fiske, of the Metropolitan company, and several others. He had no direct knowledge that such a demand had been made. He said that General Gobin had in his possession an affidavit bearing on the subject, which had been made by John French, of Oil City, an agent of the Metropolitan company. He gave the names of several other employes of this company, who will appear before the committee and testify on this subject.

Senator Flinn was also a witness. His testimony simply corroborated the evidence given by Mr. Kauffman. The committee adjourned until next Tuesday afternoon, when French and the other employes of the New York company will testify.

About the Chick.

Just about this season of the year, when many of our readers are engaged in caring for their first brood of young chickens, the following concerning the period of incubation may be of much interest:

The development of a chick within the egg is one of the most wonderful things in nature. At the end of the 58th hour of incubation the heart begins to beat, two vesicles are seen, and a few hours later the auricles also appear. On the fourth day the outlines of the wings may be perceived and sometimes of the head also; on the fifth day the liver is visible; on the sixth other internal organs appear. In 190 hours the beak is fully formed; in 200 hours the ribs are clearly developed; in 240 hours the feathers are visible; in 268 hours the eyes appear; in 288 the ribs are completed and the feathers on the breast; in 330 the lungs, stomach and breast have assumed natural appearance. On the 18th day the first faint piping of the chick is sometimes audible.

Crop Bulletin.

The weather bureau's crop bulletin for the week ending May 24th says the conditions of the past week were favorable all through the state for wheat, rye and grass, but too cool for the rapid growth of tender vegetation. In some localities the frost of the 22d was damaging to fruit and vegetables. Wheat in many sections is heading and a full crop is promised. Tobacco has been planted, but corn planting on the lowlands has been delayed on account of the wet condition of the ground. Fruit prospects are favorable as a whole, but some orchards have been injured by frosts.

Awarded $2,000.

At Easton last week the case of William White, of Glendon, who brought suit against the Lehigh valley railroad company to recover $10,000 damages for the death of his wife near the Lucy Furnace station, in November, 1892, was tried. The facts are that Mrs. White had been in Easton on a shopping excursion, and in the evening had started for her home, near Lucy Furnace, with her purchases, on a Lehigh valley passenger train. The body of his wife was discovered on the tracks by Mr. White, who had gone to meet her. A coroner's inquest was held, the jury censuring the railroad company for not keeping a watchman at the crossing. The jury after deliberating four hours rendered a verdict in favor of Mr. White for $2,000.

The Things That Make Men

It is not the best things—that is, the things that we called best—that make men; it is not the pleasant things; it is not the calm experience of life; it is life's rugged experiences, its tempests, its trials. The discipline of life is here good and there evil here troubles and there joy, here rudeness and there smoothness, one working with the other, which necessitate adaptations, constitute a part of that ed ucation which makes a man, in distinction from an animal.

It is strongly intimated the reason the Great Powers of Europe refused to interfere in behalf of the oppressed Cretans, and stay the indiscriminate slaughter of christians by Musselmen was owing to the fact that their people were large holders of Turkish bonds. Dont prate about principle, when interest is involved. Talk is cheap.

CHRISTIAN RALLY AT HECLA.

The Opening Picnic of the Season a Great Success—Farewell to the Evangelists.

The Christian rally at Hecla Park, which opened the picnic season at that beautiful pleasure resort, was a great success. Although the air was cool the day was fair and clear, and about 1,000 people took advantage of this last opportunity to hear the gifted Evangelists.

The park presented a very fine and inviting appearance. The walks have been newly covered with gravel, the grass neatly trimmed, and it comes out of its winter's sleep more attractive than ever. Refreshments were served on the grounds and everything possibly done for the comfort of the visitors.

The evangelistic services were held around the band stand, in the woods north of the mill, and began at 2 o'clock with singing led by Mr. Weeden. The sight of those 1,000 people gathered together in the woods singing Christian songs was indeed an inspiring one. The opening prayer was made by Rev. W. A. Stephens, pastor of the Methodist church of this place. Then, by special request, Mr. Weeden sang the solo "Saved by Grace."

Miss Scott, a returned missionary from Africa, was then introduced and gave an extremely interesting talk on the missionary work in that country. For the past eleven years herself and two brothers have been laboring among those heathen people. She spoke of the hardships the missionaries had to endure and also of the customs and manners of the country. She talked for over an hour and was listened to with close attention by all present.

Stirring addresses were made by Rev. Leonard Weaver and Rev. J. W. Van Deventer. They spoke of the good work accomplished at Bellefonte and Lock Haven, the regret they felt at leaving, and extended thanks to all who had assisted them.

At the close of the afternoon services all that could gathered in front of the old mill, with the Evangelists in the centre, and had their pictures taken by J. A. Finkbinder, of Bellefonte.

The evening services were held in front of the mill and were of great profit and enjoyment to all present. As the evening shadows began to fall the people prepared to start homeward, feeling that they had passed a most profitable day.

In 1860 it cost $1.91 per head to run the government; now it costs $5.48. But these figures do not tell the whole story, for the $1.91 was paid when prices of produce were higher than they are now. How would it do to bridge over any little deficiency that may occur in the treasury by a little old-fashioned economy? No living man can give a good reason for our spending more money per capita than we did in 1860. We throw out this hint not to one party alone, but to all parties.

FARMERS' Institutes, though recently patterned after the grange, can never take its place nor do its work. Patrons well understand the difference. The institute is general, and deals with mixed assemblies, while the grange is specially for farmers. You might as well attempt to hold a Dental convention, composed of lawyers, minister, brokers and farmers.

The Seeley Dinner.

NEW YORK, May 28.—It is likely that the persons indicted for participation in the notorious Seeley dinner last January that was raided by Police Captain Chapman will not be tried. The district attorney, according to the Journal, has about come to the conclusion that the best interests of the community demand that the details of the dinner be allowed to remain buried instead of being brought out in court. He has lately received numerous letters, signed by prominent people, urging him, in the interest of society, to allow the indictments to remain where they are. In this class are school principals and teachers, who state that the publicity given the Seeley dinner has damaged the youthful mines of the community.

Another Cave in Nippenose.

Word comes from Nippenose valley to the effect that another cave has been found about one-fourth of a mile from the opening of the cavern recently discovered near Oriole. The second cave has not yet been explored.

Another exploration of the Oriole cave has been made. A raft was put in at the opening and came out at Sanderson's dam, three eighths of a mile below. It is not known that there are fish in the cave, as two trout were caught in the stream. The cave is fifteen feet high and fifteen feet wide in many places, and there is talk now of lighting it by electricity.

More Than He Could do.

"Oh, by the way," observed Archimendes, "did you ever try to square the circle?"

"No," answered Socrates. "It was more than I could do to square myself."

Even as he spoke the shade of Xantippe could be heard demanding, from mere force of habit and without reference to the exigencies of the occasion, why he hadn't brought up the coal.

English Church Goers.

The average attendance at places of worship in England and Wales is computed between 10,000,000 and 11,000,000 persons. There is a place of worship for every 500 individuals, taking the country all through, and a stated minister for every 700. About 80,000 sermons are preached every Sunday.

"Her Rescue from the Turks," by St. George Rathborne, is the very latest romance of foreign adventure written by the well-known author of "Doctor Jack."

The field chosen could hardly have been more timely, since the eyes of the whole civilized world are at present turned toward the Orient, and armed Europe might be compared to an arch of which Turkey is the keystone. This story is rapid in action, with a vein of comedy illuminating the whole.

Of course there may be found stirring adventures and tender love passages galore, —we expect this generous entertainment from such a popular source.

We feel safe in predicting a sale for "Her Rescue by the Turks" that will press hard upon the astonishing figures shown by the romance upon which the author's reputation was founded: Published by F. Tennyson Neely, in cloth, $1.00, and paper at 50 cents.

Captain King is always a welcome visitor, and his stirring romances have whiled away many a weary hour by the seashore, on the ocean, or en route across the continent by rail. His popularity is recognized by American publishers, and there has always been keen competition to secure a contract with the writer whose books sell where others grow dusty upon the shelves. F. Tennyson Neely has of late been bringing out the Captain's romances in admirable shape, with every prospect of continuing the success attending his early works. The one placed upon our desk, "An Army Wife," is lively reading from the first page to the last. Surely it is quite enough to say that Captain King wrote it, to insure the warmest reception from a responsive public. Cloth, $1.25.

Drowned in Oil.

From the Philadelphia Times.

TITUSVILLE, May 24.—John Palmer, an oil producer, committed suicide on his lease at Tidioute this morning. On leaving his house he told his wife to have his son follow him to the wells. On reaching a large tank filled with oil the boy found his father's hat on top of it, which led to the subsequent discovery of the man's body inside. Insanity is supposed to have been the cause of the act.

National Appeal.

It is estimated that the Government is losing three million dollars a week in revenue by the delay in the passage of the Tariff bill, The people are losing ten times as much in work on account of the delay. Nearly Drowned by a Turtle.

WARREN, May 23—Saturday forenoon as some boys were following a seine in the Ohio canal a large turtle fastened to the toes of one of the lads, and but for the assistance of the men present would have drowned the boy. To unloose the reptile its head had to be cut off close to its jaws and then not for some time could the teeth be loosened from the flesh and bone. The turtle weighed about thirty pounds, the largest ever captured in Pike county. The boy became nearly frantic with pain and fright.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

Pomp at St. Peter's.

ROME, May 27.—The canonization to-day of the Blessed Zaccaria, founder of the order of Barnabites, and of the Blessed Fourier de Mataincour, surnamed the Apostle of Larraine, was the most impressive ceremony witnessed at St. Peter's since the abolition of the temporal power of the Popes. The huge Basilica was thronged. According to estimates 40,000 persons were present.

The ceremony of canonization followed. It was divided into three parts, namely the request of the Pope to grant the canonization, the proclamation canonizing the Blessed Zaccaria and the Blessed Fourier and the Pontificial mass.

After the first request the Pope intoned the Litany of the Saints After the second request his Holiness intoned the "Veni Creator." After the third request the Pope, wearing the mitre of doctor of the church, proclaimed the new saints.

Here's a Fish Story.

Mr. John Valentine, of Bradford, McKean county, is responsible for the biggest fish story so far this season. He states that a monstrous trout in the mill pond near Kane, had baffled the skill of all the local fly casters for six or seven years. John had "taken a toss" at it, but unsuccessfully. A few days ago Mr Seymour Hood, of Kane, went after the trout with a specially selected fly, and the fish was landed. It was two feet three inches long six inches across and four inches thick at the widest and thickest part. The trout weighed six pounds nine ounces. The fish will be stuffed and placed on exhibition at Kane. Some persons said it could not be a brook trout, but must be a hybrid of some kind, but the Star says if it is not a trout it had every appearance of one. The size of the fish was the only point wherein it differed from any other trout. The red spots on it were as big as the unsharpened end of a lead pencil.

Live Stock Board Meets.

The State live stock sanitary board, composed of Governor Hastings, Deputy Secretary Hamilton, Major Wells and Dr. Leonard Pearson, held a meeting in the office of the governor on Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Pearson submitted a report of his work fro January 1, 1896, to date showing that about 35,000 cattle have been examined 7,953 tested with tuberculin and 1,774 condemned and appraised as tuberculous. For these $41,800 was paid. At present there are on file written applications from 360 herd owners, who wish to have their cattle tested with tuberculin and the tuberculous animals destroyed.

At the meeting it was arranged that $30,000 should be devoted to this work for the six months ending November 30, 1897m

Sleepless Nights

Run Down in Health—Constant Pains in Arms and Shoulders—A Valuable Gift—Health, Appetite and Sleep—Pains are Gone.

"I was run down in health and could hardly keep on my feet. The least exertion would cause palpitation and I would feel as though I was being smothered. My nights were sleepless and I felt worse in the morning than when I retired. My liver was out of order and I had constant pains in my arms and shoulders and numbness in my limbs. I was sometimes dizzy and would fall. My son gave me two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and they proved of more value than a very costly gift. In a short time after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I had a good appetite, sleep came back to me and the pains all left me." MRS. ANNIE E. STETTER, 621 Marietta Ave., Lancaster, Pa.

The Snow Shoe people showed their patriotism on Decoration Day by closing their places of business and forming in a procession, which was half a mile long and marching to the graveyards and strewing the graves of the country's dead heros with the choicest of flowers, after which Rev. Rishel, the methodist minister delivered an able and patriotic address. Nearly the entire community participated in thus honoring the memories of those who went forth to defend the country's flag, the rights of man and constitutional liberty of the citizen.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, May 31, 1897.

President McKinley attended the Memorial Day ceremonies at Arlington cemetery, where addresses were delivered by Representative Dolliver, of Iowa, and Hon. Webster Davis, Assistant Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Tracey L. Jeffords was orator of the day at the Soldiers' Home cemetery, and the address at the special services at the tomb of Gen. John A. Logan was delivered by Dr. J. S. Raub. At Congressional cemetery orations were delivered by Senator Cannon, of Utah, and Hon. J. A. Frear, of Wis., and President Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by Capt. W. O. Pretsinger, of the Department of Texas, G. A. R. At St. Elizabeth's cemetery Mr. T. J. Putnam was the orator. At Oak Hill cemetery the oration was by Representative W. H. King, and at Harmony cemetery by Rev. G. W. Lee.

The Senate has made good progress in considering the tariff bill by paragraphs, and the rule adopted by the Republicans to have the steering committee agree each night upon the nature of the paragraphs that are to be voted upon the next day is working like a charm. The committee has been sustained in every vote taken by the solid Republican vote and in every instance has also been supported by some Populist or Democratic votes. The tendency of the steering committee has been to raise the duties above what they were in the amended bill reported to the Senate, and it now looks as though the bill would not differ very widely from the Dingley bill as passed by the House when it becomes a law.

There has been so much Republican objection to the increase of the tax on beer and to the proposed duty on tea that both may be struck out of the tariff bill and the revenue that they would have realized be provided for in some other way, probably by a tax on bank checks, deeds, mortgages and other conveyances, but this has not yet been fully determined upon. It is only being discussed.

Senator Aldrich, speaking for the sub-committee that prepared the amendments to the Dingley bill, including the sugar schedule, in reply to Senator Tillman's sensational insinuation, made the most positive denial that the sub-committee was influenced by the Sugar Trust, or its agents, and stated that only one man outside of the three members of the sub-committee (himself and Senators Allison, and Platt, of Con.) knew what the contents of the sugar schedule were before the bill was reported to the Senate. That man was Senator Jones, of Nevada, who is a member of the Finance committee, having been originally put on the committee as a Republican and left on as a Populist, after his announcement that he had become a member of that party. Senator Aldrich also stated that the sub-committee would welcome the most searching investigation of the manner in which the sugar schedule was prepared. The Senate will decide, probably this week, whether the Tillman resolution, directing an investigation by a special committee of five Senators, shall be adopted. It is probable that it will be, although nothing was accomplished by the other sugar investigation by the Senate three years ago, and the head of the Sugar Trust walked out of court last week on a verdict of "not guilty" when he was tried for contempt in refusing to answer questions asked by members of the Senate committee.

Senator Morgan made an exhibition of himself, and was compelled to take his seat by Senator Gallinger, who was presiding over the Senate at the time. Mr. Morgan has a bad case of Reed on the brain. He violated one of the rules of the Senate by specifically referring to the other branch of Congress and its failure to act as Mr. Morgan thinks it ought to act upon legislation that has been acted upon by the Senate.

It is denied at the State Department that the Sultan of Turkey has refused to receive Hon. James B. Angell, formerly President of the University of Michigan, as United States Minister. The stories to that effect probably originated with those who are interested in having that very thing occur and who have been trying to fill the Turkish Minister's mind with distrust of Mr. Angell, in order to bring it about. It is stated that Dr. Angell has engaged passage on a steamer which sails from New York on June 11th, and expects to start for Constantinople on that day.

Representative Lewis, James Hamilton Lewis he writes it, of the State of Washington, the man who had the temerity to attempt to help Jerry Simpson get periodically tumbled over by Speaker Reed, is about as near to being the "talking machine" he is called as any man who ever sat in either branch of Congress. Three hundred words a minute is about his gait. The House stenographers dread to see him start to talk.

Disappeared from the Bar.

NORFOLK, Va., June 1.—Walter G. Smith, a young electrical engineer, of Milwaukee, Wis., who arrived here Sunday morning to supervise the construction of the Port Norfolk Electric Railway, met with a tragic death the same afternoon. During the day he and four friends were out boating together. In the afternoon, about 5 o'clock, they were bathing on the Craney Island flats, near the channel, and suddenly Mr. Smith disappeared and was not seen afterwards.

A noise was heard about the time he disappeared, and it is supposed that he slipped off the bar into the channel of the river and was drowned. It was flood tide at the time. His friends were greatly distressed over the sad affair, and they were engaged to-day in dragging for the body. The young man's friends in Milwaukee were notified, and a liberal reward has been offered for the recovery of the body.

Tearing Down Capitol Ruins.

HARRISBURG, Pa, June 1.—The work of tearing down the ruins of the old Capitol, which was recently destroyed by fire, began Monday morning. At daybreak there were more than one thousand men in Capitol Park in search of employment. Contractor Allen B. Rorke, of Philadelphia, put 125 men to work, and expects to increase the force to 400 when the interior has been removed. He expects to finish the contract within twenty days. The construction of the new Capitol will then be begun.

Death of a Child.

Alice, the six year old daughter of William Rider of Coleville died Saturday evening at six o'clock of membraneous croup.

The child was buried in the Catholic cemetery, interment being made about 2 o'clock Sunday morning. This is a very sad case indeed and the parents have the sincere sympathy of the public. The father of the child is lying very low with typhoid fever.

Before the Legislature.

A bill entitled "An act for the promotion of the agricultural and dairy interests of the Commonwealth and making appropriations for the same" has been introduced in the House of Representatives by the Hon. A. L. Martin, of Lawrence, and favorably reported by the Committee on Agriculture by a unanimous vote.

This bill makes appropriations to the trustees of he Pennsylvania State College, to enable them to provide the Agricultural Department of the College with the necessary equipment for the proper and efficient conduct of its work and to put it on a par in this respect with the corresponding departments of kindred institutions in other States. The bill provides for the erection and equipment of a dairy school building and accessories to accommodate one hundred students and also for an investigation of the soils of the State and of its fruit-growing interests.

The Creamery and Short Courses at the College have been in operation for the past six years and in spite of very in adequate equipment the number of students has steadily increased until it became necessary, last winter, to refuse several on account of lack of accommodations. This work of the College has received but very slight recognition at the hands of the State. During the past ten years the average annual appropriation for the agricultural work of the College has been equivalent to a tax of three one thousandths of a mill upon the agricultural valuation, (not the total valuation,) of the State. The friends of agricultural education in the Commonwealth propose, if possible, to remedy this state of affairs and to have the School of Agriculture of the State College worthy of the State and in keeping with the magnitude of its agricultural interests. It is to be hoped that farmers and dairymen will cordially support this move in their interest by writing to their Representatives urging the passage of this bill.

The Secret of Beauty.

Dr. Hartman, in speaking of female beauty in a recent lecture, said: "It is not vanity for a woman to desire to be beautiful. It is natural for a woman to have a graceful body, symmetrical features and a clear complexion. This is hers by birthright. It is only when some disease or calamity robs her of these natural gifts, to which she is entitled, that she does not have them. It is, therefore, perfectly natural and commendable that she should, as far as possible, obtain that which is hers by nature. This is just as it should be, if she does not make a mistake in the means used. To cover up a blemish to conceal a deformity, to hide a poor complexion, is not to get rid of them.

"After all, good health is the basis of beauty. Clean skin, clean muceous membranes: these are the true source of beauty and symmetry.

It is even more necessary that the lining membranes of the body (mucous membranes) be kept clean than the covering membrane (the skin) should be kept clean. The slightest catarrhal congestion of the mucous membrane, especially in females, gives rise to weakening discharges, acrid secretions, and a host of distressing symbtoms peculiar to female diseases."

The remedy is Pe ru-na. Pe-ru-na cures catarrh wherever located. Female catarrh is the most beauty-destroying disease in existence. Pe-ru-na cures by removing the cause. Pe-ru-na strikes at the source of all these hateful disfigurements. Send to The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a free book.

King George Barricaded.

London, May 29.—The Morning Post,s correspondent at Constantinople says: "To day (Friday) the embassies received word from their respective Ministers at Athens that the position of the Greek royal family is now critical. King George is practically barricaded in the palace, and it is reported that he is making his preparations to leave Athens in order to evade the fury of the populace. The relations between the King and M. Ralli, the Premier, are very much strained, and the generally situation is extremely serious."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A LOCAL PAINTER.

Drops His Paint Pot and Brush to Make a Few Remarks on Renovating.

This homily is for Bellefonte people. It is especially intended for them. If it reaches the ears of outsiders they have to thank the public press and Mr. Harry J. Williams of Water street. The gentleman is a painter, an authority on the action of turpentine, benzine and other dryers in the painting process and on the human system. He is also an authority on the action of the old Quaker remedy.

The calling of a painter, under the best circumstances, is not an easy one on the back, and when delicate organs are inflamed and excited and become so tender that they actually throb with pain, the occupation becomes so irksome that many a painter has thrown down his brush in disgust and wished he would die. Mr Williams says:

"The first trouble I had from my kidneys was from a fall while working on a building where the floor was only partly laid. I slipped and wrenched my back very severely when carrying a board. Ever since then I have had a weakness in the loins and at intervals it broke out into very severe attacks of excruciating pains. Often while at work, long before the close of the day, my back gave out and ached so I felt like giving up. The ingredients used in my business are hard on a good, sound pair of kidneys, but when you constantly inhale them, and they effect weak ones, the suffering is positively awful. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills curing any disease of kidney complaint similar to mine and I thought I would try them as my trouble was really becoming serious. I got a box at F. Potts Green's Pharmacy and commenced to use it. They surprised me how soon they acted. I have taken no other medicine for some time and I can only attribute my cure to their action. You are at liberty to make these facts public."

Plain Evidence of a Murder.

NEWPORT, Mich., May 30.—The body of a man found floating in the lake near the village has been partially identified as that of John Koller, the wealthy Cincinnati merchant, whose unacountable disappearance has been a great mystery. The buttons on his clothes bear the firm mark of Buschel & Schoen, of Cincinnati. There is a bullet hole through the back of the neck, and the murder theory seems justifiable. The body has been temporarily buried on the beach, but will be exhumed Tuesday. Mr. Koller left home May 5. The last heard from him was in Detroit, when he was about to take the boat for Cleveland.

Theodore J. Moeller arrived from Cincinnati to-day and immediately and positively identified the body of the man found on the beach Friday as that of his father-in-law, John Koller, the missing Cincinnati merchant. He will take the remains home to-morrow. Mr. Moeller feels certain that Mr. Koller was murdered. He says that the dead man's business and family relations were entirely pleasant.

It seems that after leaving Cincinnati, May 5, Mr. Koller came to Detroit by steamer from Cleveland. The last time that he was known to have been seen was when he disembarked in Detroit on the morning of May 7.

Texas Duel Fatal To Both Men.

SWEET HOME, Texas, May 30.—The neighborhood were assembled at Salem Church, eight miles from here, yesterday, in observance of Decoration Day. Two young men, Will Lewis and Wit Bosworth, were among the number. Bad blood existed between them, too much talk being the cause. They walked away from the crowd together, and stopped after going some distance, appearing to talk the matter over calmly. One turned as if to leave, when the other drew a revolver. The other wheeled, and both fired about the same instant, and continued until their revolvers were empty.

Both were dead when their friends got to them. Every bullet fired by each took effect in his opponent. Lewis was shot three times through the body and once through the arm. Bosworth was hit twice in the head, twice in the body, and once in the leg. The duel could have been prevented, but every one thought, when they walked away, that they were likely to patch up their troubles, and as this was desired they were allowed a clear field.

HAVANA, May 31.—The Bourbon regiment of cavalry, under command of Colonel Perol, it is officially reported, has engaged, pursued and dispersed at Novedad, province of Havana, a force of insurgents believed to have been commanded by General Alberto Rodriguez. The enemy left eleven men killed and, in addition, the insurgents are believed to have suffered heavy loss in killed and wounded who were carried away. Documents which fell into the hands of the Spaniards upon this occasion show that General Alberto Rodriguez died on May 18.

It is officially announced that during skirmishes which have taken place between the Spanish troops and the insurgents, within the last ten days, the latter lost 327 men killed, the troops captured 10 prisoners and 186 firearms and 22 armed insurgents surrendered. Among the insurgents killed, it is further stated, were one colonel, two lieutenant colonels and eleven officers of minor rank.

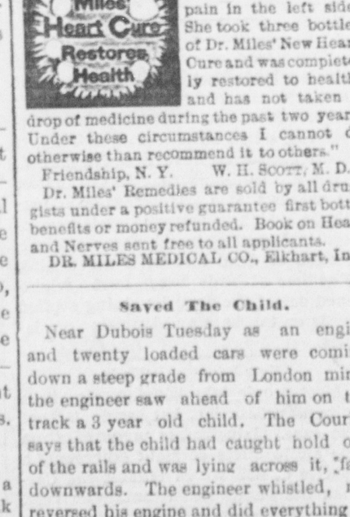
A Physician's Tribute

To the Benefits Received From Dr. Miles' NEW HEART CURE.



HEART DISEASE is curable. It is not surprising that all cases are not cured, since no physician has made the heart a special study for a quarter of a century as Dr. Miles has done. The following tribute from a physician will be read with interest. "For six years prior to taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure my wife was a terrible sufferer from heart disease. She had a constant fluttering of the heart and severe palpitation and pain in the left side. She took three bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and was completely restored to health, and has not taken a drop of medicine during the past two years. Under these circumstances I cannot do otherwise than recommend it to others."

Saved The Child.

Near Dubois Tuesday as an engine and twenty loaded cars were coming down a steep grade from London mine, the engineer saw ahead of him on the track a 3 year old child. The Courier says that the child had caught hold one of the rails and was lying across it, face downwards. The engineer whistled, reversed his engine and did everything in his power to check the speed of the engine, but as the train was on the down grade, it was soon seen that the train could not be stopped before reaching the child. A brakeman named George Ayers, taking in the situation, ran out on the running board and firmly fastened his foot on the pilot. With the other foot, when the engine bore down on the child, he gave the little one a lift and a shove and threw it over into a ditch alongside the road. As soon as the train could be stopped the men ran back and found the child unconscious in the ditch, the breath having been knocked out of it by the rough tumbling it had received.

It required two hours' time to restore the child to consciousness, but otherwise it was all right. The parents of the child are foreigners and cannot speak a word of English. Brakemen Ayers was heartly congratulated for his brave act.

PATRONS IN COUNCIL.

Grand Meeting of Centre Co. Pomona Grange in Hall of Victor Grange, May 27, 1897.

Agreeably to previous notice, Centre Co. Pomona met in Victor Grange home at Oak Hall at 10 a. m. on the 27th ult. Worthy Master Geo. Dale in the chair. Opened in regular form, Miss Anna Dale, presiding at the organ. The Secretary called the roll of officers and read the minutes of last regular meeting which were approved as read, also the minutes of the special meetings held in different parts of the County since the last regular meeting

Mr. Ailman of Victor Grange welcomed Pomona to their home in a well chosen address which was neatly responded to by Mr. J. A. Keller, of Progress on behalf of the County organization, Worthy Master Dale appointed S. P. Hockman of Spring Mills, J. Donavan of Logan and Mrs. Dauberman of Progress, Committee on Credentials.

Jas. A. Keller. of the Insurance Company, presented his quarterly report which showed a large number of new risks taken, but not a material advance in the business of the Company as a number of risks had expired during the quarter.

The following resolution was presented.

Resolved, that a Committee of three of whom the Master shall be chairman, be appointed to inquire into the expediency of re-organizing the Patron's Live Stock association, and report at the next meeting. Remarks were made favoring the proposition and giving reasons therefor. when the resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote. On Motion

Resolved, That we enter our protest as a County Grange against the repeal of the Oleomargerine Law and the substitution of a law legalizing its sale as an article of food, and that the secretary be directed to transmit an official copy of the same to our Senator and representatives at Harrisburg. The resolution was heartily endorsed by lively remarks, by a number of members and adopted without a dissenting vote. The Committee appointed at last meeting to examine the roll of members of the County Granges and suggest measures for the restoration of delinquent members, submitted their report which was adopted. RECESS UNTIL 1,30 P. M.

Publishing "Committee of The Patron" submitted their report for the first year of its publication as follows:

WORTHY MASTER:—

Your Committee on publication beg leave to report, that it has closed up its accounts, with the Patron, for the first year, ending February, 1897. We herewitht submit a detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures for the information of the County Grange.

Three numbers of the second year have already been published, with a more satisfactory return from advertising; subscriptions have been coming in slowly, still enough to indicate that the Patrons of the county are interested in the success of the Patron.

We feel convinced that the revival of grange interest in the county, is in a measure, due to the fact, that through the Patron the County Grange has had a medium, through which the people outside the Grange could be reached and made conversant with the purposes and the work that the Order is doing for the promotion of the agricultural interest of our county.

Your Committee has labored earnestly, for the success of the paper, without even desiring any compensation, for its labors, not unfrequently the members using their own private means for the promotion of the publication.

The Committee, however, regret that many of the Subordinate Granges have made no organized effort to increase the circulation, in fact a few of our own people have not yet encouraged your Committee by their subscriptions. We do not say this in a complaining way, but only to bring to your attention, that it is your duty to, at least, give a helping hand by your individual subscriptions, and the importance of every Grange making an organized effort to extend its circulation, thereby inducing new members to come into the Grange and encouraging our older members to remain steadfast to the Order. Fraternally submitted.

Signed by Committee.

The report was received and placed on file

The Picnic Committee submitted the following report:

WORTHY MASTER:—

Your Committee on Encampment and Exhibition beg leave to report that they met and organized for 1897, by electing L. Rhone, Chairman, George Dale, Secretary, and J. J. Arney, Treasurer.

The following persons were appointed as the chiefs of the several Departments: J. J. Dauberman, Superintendent of grounds; George Dale, Superintendent of exhibits of implements; George Gingrich. Superintendent of exhibits of live stock, The Superintendency of privileges and amusements to be under the control of the Chairman until a suitable person can be selected.

The Committee selected September the 11th, for the opening of the Encampment and the 13th for the opening of the Exhibition proper, to be continued until the 18th of September.

The Railroad Companies have assured us that they will give the same passenger and freight rates we had last year.

The rental for the higher priced tents has been reduced from $5.00 to $4.00 with the exception of a few Hospital tents, which the Committee deemed it inexpedient to change.

A number of additional forest trees were planted this spring.

If concurred in, by the County Grange, we will immediately proceed to communicate with the Subordinate Granges of the county, with a view of interesting them in this exhibit.

All the debts on the property have been paid and mortgages and judgements satisfied. As we are now entering upon a new year of independence of encumbrance we should take new heart in the assurance of the permanent growth and development of our Organization in Centre county, by making this, as it were, a year of jubilee, when every family represented in the Grange, should join with us in celebrating this event, by camping with us at our permanently established home and tented city. Fraternally submitted.

Signed by Committee.

The report was discussed and adopted by a unanamous vote.

Propositions referred by subordinate Granges for action of the County Grange were next considered.

1st Request that the Directors of Insurance Co. be instructed to take risks on water grist mills. The request was discussed and laid on the table.

2nd That the Insurance Company be authorized to take risks on town property not exceeding one risk in the same square, under existing regulations, when the property is not occupied by a member of the order.

Referred to a special Committee to report at the next meeting.

Mr. Edwin Smith, of Progress Grange, next pronounced a humorous recitation. The speaker was selfposessed and rendered his selection very creditably.

Mr. Weld, of Warren Co., (Now State College) gave an interesting address on Dairying, which he divided into three heads: 1st are we a dairyman? 2nd to succeed we must have dairy cows, and 3rd we must have a dairy farm. Suggested when butter was low and cheese high, had better turn attention to the latter, and when butter advanced and cheese declined return to the former. His talk was well received and elicited numerous questions.

Mrs. M. M. Weaver, of Bald Eagle Grange read an essay entitled, "Home Forces," which was requested for publication in the Patron.

How are we to reduce "Local Taxation' was opened by Mr. Jno. Dale of Logan, which brought out good points and was followed by a number of others suggesting new ideas in the train of economizing in home government, in conducting our public schools, building roads, and supporting the poor.

The Committee appointed at last meeting to invest the surplus funds of the Grange reported as follows:

WORTHY MASTER:—

Your Committee appointed at the last quarterly session, to consider the advisability of investing some of the surplus funds of the County Grange, in Building and Loan Associations, have carefully considered the same and have subscribed in the name of the County Grange, for ten shares in the Millheim Building and Loan Association, Incorporated December 1st, 1874, and re-incorporated in 1894.

We herewith submit By-laws, certificate of shares, —the mature value of the shares to be $100—payable in monthly installments of $1.00 a share, which shares are supposed to mature in seventy two months or soon after.

Already four instalments have been paid. Should the investment successfully materialize, it will in a period of from six to seven years establish a reserved fund of $1000, thus laying the foundation for permanently capitalizing our County Grange.

Fraternally submitted,

GEORGE DALE.
J. J. MUSSER.

An essay, entitled "The Mission of the Rural Home" was read by Mrs. B. F. Brown, of Victor, which was requested for publication in the Patron. (See essay in another column.)

The following was offered.

WHEREAS The National Department of Agriculture was created at the urgent request of farmers for the benefit of farmers and courtesy would dictate that farmers should be at the head of it and the clerkships filled by farmers: Therefore

Resolved, That those holding clerkships and other positions in this Department who are not directly representative of the agricultural class berequested to resign in order to give place to the appointment of the sons and daughters of farmers, who are on every principle of honor entitled to the appointments and best qualified to fill them,

Resolved, that the Secretary be directed to forward an official copy of the resolutions to the Secretary of Agriculture.

The resolution was adopted.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered Victor Grange for their generous hspitality in so amply providing for the entertainment of the County Grange.

Third quarterly meeting will be held in Milesburg in August.

Closed in due form.

Illiterate Voters.

From the Lewiston Journal.

Connecticut agrees with Maine in the constitutional duty of declaring illiterate voters to be a national peril. The Connecticut Senate has just passed, in concurrence with the House, a resolution for a constitutional amendment to make ability to read the English language a qualification of suffrage, and the amendment will be submitted to the people at the next State election. It is now required by the constitution that a voter be able to read any section of the constitution or of the statutes, but it is not specified that the reading shall be in the English language.

From the Journal, Detroit, Mich.

"Disease of the spinal cord and nervous prostration, was what the doctors called it at first," Mrs. Rosa Tapley, of No. 721 Harrison Street, Ionia, Mich., said yesterday to a reporter, "but it was not long before every organ and member of my body was affected. There was a continuous beating at the pit of my stomach, my head ached on until I thought I should grow insane. I felt as if I was smothering and my legs would become so weak that I had to drop when I felt the spells coming on. As for sleep, that was out of the question, except little cat naps, for in addition to the feelings I have attempted to describe, I had neuralgia, and for six months I kept getting worse and worse, and at last was confined to my bed in October, 1894.

"I have nearly always thought it was la grippe, that I had," Mrs. Tapley continued, "though the doctor never would say so, but whatever it was it kept getting worse and worse, especially my head and nerves, and I thought I should die, but I dragged on a wretched existence until about one year ago, when, while I was reading the Detroit Journal and Saranac Weekly, I saw a long account of a similar case to my own being cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I made up my mind to try these pills, and so procured a supply and began taking them according to directions.

"My experience has been most happy. My heart's action is normal, my back and spine gave me very little trouble, all neuralgic and rheumatic pains have left me. I have no headache, whatever, and after the hell that I suffered my life by comparison is now like heaven.

"I cannot say too much in praise of Pink Pills. You may use all the adulatory language of which you are capable," Mrs. Tapley said to the reporter, "and I will endorse it. I have never tired of recommending the pills to my neighbors, and my sister who is a school teacher, and had a serious time with her nerves and suffered from loss of memory, at my suggestion is taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and is being rapidly cured.

"Read over what you have written," Mrs. Tapley requested, and after listening attentively to what she had dictated, said: "I can sign that statement with the greatest pleasure," and when the last remark was entered the lady signed her name to the reporter's notes thus:

(Signed) MRS. ROSA TAPLEY,
721 Harrison Street, Ionia, Mich.

Death of Editor C. B. Gould.

C. B. Gould, editor of the Cameron County Press, at Emporium, Pa., died Tuesday morning, 25th inst., at his family residence, aged 70 years and ten months. Mr. Gould has been editor of the Press since the first issue, in March, 1866, and has been closely identified with the best interests of Cameron county. He has been an invalid for several years, yet kept in the editorial harness until last December and up to within a few weeks kept in touch with the current events of the day. The cause of his death was heart disease; Funeral was held Friday at 2:30, from the family residence.

Fell Down a Flight of Stairs.

On Tuesday night Mr. Joseph Twitmyer, an aged citizen of our town, met with quite a serious accident at his home. He had reason to get up during the night, and while groping around for a light he became bewildered and fell down a long flight of stairs, sustaining serious injuries. Just how serious they are cannot be told as yet, although the doctors say there are no bones broken, but he sustained a severe shock, is badly bruised and one side seems to be paralyzed. Mr. Twitmyer is 73 years of age.

The Trial of Havemeyer.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The trial of Henry O. Havemeyer, the president of the American Sugar Refining company, indicted for refusing to answer questions propounded at the Senate sugar investigation in June, 1894, was resumed this morning. The attendance was almost as large as yesterday.

District Attorney Davis referred in evidence the extract of the Senate Journal showing the recreancy of Mr. Havemeyer, to which the defense objected, unless the other journals showing the whole action of the Senate upon the case be admitted.

Judge Bradley agreed to admit all relevant extracts from the Senate journals, and thereupon Mr Johnson withdrew his objection. Accordingly the extracts showing the three reports of the committee to the Senate and detailing the fact of Mr. Havermeyer's contumacy were admitted.

Mr. Johnson objected to the admission of the printed report of the committee as evidence, and a long legal debate followed on this point.

The government rested its case in the Havermeyer trial at 1.25 o'clock. Mr. Johnson, for the defense, moved to dismiss the indictment.

Couldn't Prove the Kissing.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 25.—Isaac Harley, the grocery salesman, of Philadelphia, who was accused of kissing Mrs. Edward Erwin, the wife of a blind customer, was discharged by Recorder Ingersoll on the ground of insufficient evidence. Mrs. Erwin's testimony was unsupported, and Harley strenuously denied the kissing.

Two Killed, Three Injured.

RENOVA, Pa., May 26.—Two men were instantly killed and three other seriously injured by the explosion of a boiler in a saw mill of Joseph Haney, at Glen Hazel, Elk county, this state. The killed are: William Johnson, the fireman, and a man named Schaffer, both of Reynoldsville.

Joseph Haney, the proprietor, and two other men, who were near the building at the time of the explosion, were injured by flying debris.

The accident is supposed to have been ccused by a defective boiler.

Cannot Attend.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—President McKinley, in a letter to Mayor Stoy received to-day, sends regrets at not being able to attend the Grand Army encampment here next Monday. A pressure of official business is the cause attributed.

The Power and Influence of the Grange.

No one doubts the integrity and patriotism of the great wealth producing clan of our fellow-citizens. In the hour of peril, they can always be relied upon. When armed forces invade our territory or rebellion threatens our existence, the rural homes, the mines, the work-shops of the land are called upon to defend the flag of stars! Most nobly have they responded in the past and can well be trusted in the future!

In the darkest hour of our Country's financial history, when the forces of the Confederates had surrendered, and the great problem of financial life or death had to be met and solved—when our bounds were begging places in the money marts of the world—the stout hearts and strong arms of our great class—the wealth producing masses—poured their millions of bushels of cereals upon the markets of the world, turned the tideof trade inour favor, and saved the country from ruin, as they had from armed resistence, financiala few years before.

Then the stupendous social and political chasm between the North and South, occasioned by the internecine struggle, had to be bridged. Politicians could not do it. The brokers on State street and Wall street could not accomplish it. It was deep and wide.

In this trying hour we see the great agricultural class again in the front. The founders of our noble and patriotic order clasping hands across the gulf and enunciating the broad principles of fraternity in our Declaration of Purposes.

"We cherish the belief that sectionalism is, and of right should be, dead and buried with the past. Our work is for the present and the future. In our Agricultural Brotherhood and its purposes, we shall recognize no North, no South, no East, no West."

Beneath the ample folds of the fraternal grange banner, we have seen the discordant sections happily re-united. The men that formerly wore the grey and met "Our boys in blue" amid the shock battle, now unite with us in the peaceful conquests of agriculture, and heartily engage with us in our endeavors to educate and elevate our great class, and cement forever the bonds of union that stamps us the greatest nation in the world.

The invincible army of "tillers of the soil," from every section of our common country, "united by the strong and faithful tie of agriculture," exercising its combined influence upon all alike, is destined to mould society and render our great National organization still more potential in the future.

Working on Plans.

Architect Cole, of Bellefonte, the designer of the Reformed church, has been engaged by the local Grange to prepare plans for the new hall the order proposes erecting on the lot recently purchased. The order proposes to erect a creditable building, suitable for their own purposes, along with accommodations for business purposes. A new hall will go up, that is sure, but how soon the Grange is as yet unable to say.—Centre Reporter.

A Case of Foothold.

ATHENS, May 26.—An exciting scene took place at the ministry of marine to-day. Signor Di Felice, the Italian socialist leader, rudely accosted and insulted M. Ralli. the Greek premier. The latter immediately summoned the police and had Di Felice put on board an Italian ironclad lying off the Piræus, with a request that he be not allowed to again set foot on Greek soil.

The Presbyterians.

EAGLE LAKE, Ind., May 27.—The main question of importance before the Presbyterian general assembly to-day was that of the next place of meeting, and Winona was selected. The attendance at the assembly has been augmented in spite of yesterday's departures, by arrivals to-day, and interest in the proceedings has not seemed to lag in spite of the fact that the bulk of the topics considered are those which are mainly of a strictly denominational interest.

Whitelaw Reid Accepts.

Washington, May 27.—Whitelaw Reid called at the White House to-day and had lunch with the President His visit was for the purpose of talking over with Mr. McKinley the proffer made to him yesterday of accepting the post of special ambassador of the United States at the Queen's Jubilee. Before leaving for New York he accepted the mission and will represent the United States on that occasion.

THE man who will not stand by his friend or neighbor or organization is no good. Neither is the organization that will not defend its workers, and upholders. Same is true of departments and co-laborers. Who is my friend and neigbor; The Book says he that showed kindness. The grange teaches this grand doctrine.

LAYING DOWN THE LAW.

And How it Was Carried Out to the Satisfaction of All Concerned.

"Some years ago," said the professor, "I bought a tract of iron and coal land in southern Missouri. There were a lot of squatters on the premises, but I anticipated no trouble in having them vacate.

"Armed with a deed, and nothing more formidable, I went down to take possession.

"When I had explained my purpose to two or three of the squatters whom I happened to come upon fishing in one of my streams, they entered no protest, but looked at one another and said I had better see Spud Dearing, as he was the man they had chosen to do the business of the colony. I tried to impress them with the fact that there was really no business to be done. They were trespassers, the property was mine, and they would have to leave. They made no sign as to the merits of the question, but told me to see Spud. 'He warn't no eddicated law'er, but he knowed his bus'ness.'

"'Howdy,' was Spud's salutation. 'I hearn you bought this place,' he announced with startling promptness. 'Weuns kim here an' opened up lan' an' raised truck and r'ared our fam'lies an' 'stablished a buryin' groun' an' made all our 'rangements ter live an' die here. It's too late ter change our plans. But they hain't nothin mean 'bout us fellers. I 'tend ter bus'ness for all of 'em, and' it won't 'tain you more'n three minutes. You kin come in here an' raise crops an' dig in yer mines, but we mus' have th' cabins an' th' little patches we's got an' stay here. Nobody else kin bother you. Thet's th' law, an' th' rest of it is that ef you don't agree you'll be planted right here on yer own lan'.'

"I agreed and never made a better bargain. I don't miss what Spud and his colony take, and they see to it faithfully that no one else takes anything."—Detroit Free Press.

Newsboy Wit.

On a train pulling up for a short stop at a certain railway-station an affectedly benevolent lady-passenger, calling a diminutive newsboy, proceeded to overhaul the assortment of papers, the boy therefore, expecting to effect a good sale.

Having deliberately examined each and every illustration in his stock-in-trade, she, to the lad's natural surprise, declined to buy anything.

Evidently the youngster was rather taken aback by the feminine filibuster's colossal audacity, and he fell back a pace or two with deep disgust written in every line of his intelligent phiz. He proved equal to the occasion, however.

Stepping forward again, he, with all the withering sarcasm at his command, remarked aloud:

"Beggin' yo'r pardin', Mrs. Millionairs, I thought as ev'rybody knew it was my job to sell these 'ere journils, betsettera; but it seems as you've taken me for a bloomin' free liberary!"

Bass Viol Puzzled Him.

The company of one of the opera houses at the close of a London season, had arrived at Liverpool to embark for a continetal tour. The musical instruments were being shipped with the rest, and among them was the double bass, or "big fiddle," as it is also called, not cased, as usual, for this member of the string family will stand a little rough treatment.

A bluff seaman was discovered secretly watching it with wondering eyes. He was asked his reason for standing thus idle.

"Well, yer know," said Jack, "I'm just waiting for to see the length of the bloke's arm that can play that there fiddle."—Musical Anecdotes.

Delicately Organized.

Those who enjoy the possession of singing birds should not forget that they are extremely nervous in their organization. In nine cases out of every ten, when birds lose their song, it is because they have been frightened. They are so high strung in the matter of nerves that a fright results in paralysis, which in many cases is permanent. Persons should never show a stuffed or dead bird to a caged bird. Numbers of birds have been frightened out of the song by seeing stuffed birds on the hats and bonnets of ladies.

How Isinglass is Made.

Most people take isinglass to be a mineral production, but such is not the case. Isinglass is prepared from the air bladders of giant sturgeons, a species of fish which inhabit the Caspian Sea and its tributary rivers. These fish average 25 feet in length, and it is said to take the bladders of 17 good-sized ones to make three pounds of the glass.—From Hardware.

Large Fees for a Discovery.

For inoculating the Russian Empress and her son Paul against smallpox in 1768 Baron Dimsdale received $50,000 as a fee, $10,000 for expenses, and an annuity of $2,500, while, in addition to all this, he was granted the title of Baron. This was just thirty years before Jenner's discovery of vaccination, for which Parliament granted him $150,000 altogether.

Invariable.

"Where do bad little boys go when they die?"

"Dunno. But Uncle Harry says it's the same place good little boys go to when they grow up."—Truth.

Fling: "And did the stage have the appearance of a real garden in the garden scene?"

Storms: "Oh, yes; I hadn't been on three minutes before the place was filled with vegetables."

To Our Readers.

The entire country is suffering beyond description from the industrial invasion of goods of other countries through the Wilson-Gorman free trade tariff.

Times are growing harder every day, and with the vast amount of foreign merchandise coming to this country the good effects of a Protective tariff are already discounted. We can have no prosperity until Protection is embodied in our laws. Feeling that Congress does not appreciate the conditions which prevail we want the assistance of our readers to inaugurate a postal card campaign, telling United States Senators the wishes of the people in favor of immediate tariff legislation.

Will you help in this work? If so, read the article in another column entitled "National Appeal." Our senators are anxious to help along the good cause and you can assist them in their efforts by showing your interest in that which is for the benefit of us all.

Work of the Lungs.

Our industrious lungs, having only a rest of about one second between each respiration, have 600,000,000 of air cells, with an average of five very minnte blood vessels on their outer surface, or a total of 3,000,000,000, to receive the inspired air and to renovate the blood. At each inspiration these air cells are more or less filled with air, the oxygen being of more special importance in this purification of the blood.

Monkey as an Imitator.

At Cheltenham, England, there lives a retired admiral and his wife who have a favorite monkey. One day recently the lady, hearing a strange noise in the dinning-room, looked to see what it was. The sight which met her eyes was a ludicrous one. Seated in the arm-chair, with the admiral's smoking cap on his head, and the admiral's spectacles on his nose, was the monkey, and in his hand was the open newspaper, which he shook and patted, while he jabbered and gesticulated with great emphasis at the cat, which lay blinking on the hearth rug. It was a clever and carefully studied imitation of the testy old admiral's tone and manner when reading to his wife some passages from the newspaper which excited his wrath or indignation.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Marriage has reformed a great many men by their not going into it.

A woman always judges a man by his voice, and a man judges him by his necktie.

A man is generally said to be sick abed, while a girl is said to be confined to he room.

The man who will never admit that he's wrong generally ends with the biggest reputation.

A new woman is one who wants to manage all the other men the way she does her own husband—if she has any.

When you call on a girl and her hands look nice and white, it is generally a sign that she has held them up above her head all the way down stairs.

Improved U. S. Separator.

The No. 5 Improved U. S. Separator that we bought of you March 1st is doing all that we can ask of it, and we are very much pleased with it.

It is running now at the rate of over 400 pounds of milk per hour, and testing on an average 0.03 of one per cent. We think that is close enough for any separator to skim.

It was reported around some, when we first ran it, that the sheep had to work so hard that he would not stand it long, but we do not think he is quite dead yet. After he had run it just one month, we found by weighing him that he had gained five pounds. He now weighs 175 pounds, and runs it very easily.

MR. TILLMAN'S SENSATION

He Demands an Investigation of the Sugar Trust.

CHARGE AGAINST MR. SMITH

Tillman Says the Senators Who Speculate in Sugar From Inside Information Are Nothing More Than Black Leg Gamblers.

HOT SHOT FOR THE SENATORS.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Senator Tillman introduced a resolution in the senate to-day demanding a sugar investigation. He says a cloud is resting upon the senate which cannot be removed until the investigation is held. The senators listened with intense interest to Tillman's speech. He says the fact is that Chapman went to jail rather than testify to convict some senators, and they ought to be punished for their dishonorable acts. He claims he had specifications upon which to base an inquiry and he directly charged Senator Smith with speculating in sugar. He says any senator on the finanace committee who took advantage of inside information to buy sugar was nothing more than a black leg gambler who plays with cards up his sleeve.

His remarks created a great sensation. He then read extracts from the papers making serious charges against the finance committee for being controlled by the trust.

Senator Adrich replied in denial. He said that the sugar trust had nothing to do with the schedule and says he is willing for an investigrtion.

Floral Tribute to Curtin.

From the Philadelphia Times: The Pennsylvania Reserves are romantically devoted to venerating the memory of Governor Curtin, to whose sagacity and patriotism the organization of that corps is entirely indebted for its organization. There is now exhibited in The Times window, Eighth and Chestnut streets, a beautiful floral piece that is to be sent to Bellefonte and placed on Curtin's grave on Decoration Day. The committee that has prepared this floral design consists of Owen Jones, Third regiment; James F. Morrison and James McCormick, Second regiment; John M. Reiber, Fourth regiment, and John W. McElfresh, Ninth regiment.

It is a beautiful design, and it is the purpose of the veterans of the Reserves to continue this decoration of Curtin's grave as long as the Reserve organization shall exist.

Y. M. C. A. Day in Bellefonte.

Sunday June 6th will be observed as Y. M. C. A. day in Bellefonte, in the interest of the local association. Representatives of the state and secretarial organizations will be present to make addresses. The pulpits in the morning will be occupied by some prominent speaker, and in the evening union meetings will be held in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. These meetings will be opened to all. In the afternoon a mass meeting for men will be held in the Court House to be addressed by W. D. Lanmaster of Danville.

Everybody should attend these gatherings and thereby come in touch with the only and greatest movement for young men in the world. The speakers are men who have had years of experience in the work, and will be fully able to interest Bellefonte people. Let the churches be filled both morning and evening.

The Grain-O Law Suit.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 24, 1897.—The great $50,000 damage suit instituted by a Michigan Cereal Company against the Genesee Pure Food Company is at an end. They settled it and took it out of court for the ridiculously small sum of $500, and as a practical result, Grain-O is in greater demand than ever. The new plant, only just completed, is to be duplicated, so that only the old friends of the delicious food drink, which completely takes the place of coffee, but the new friends it is making every day, can be supplied. The beverage which the children, as well as the adult, may drink with benefit, will be furnished in unlimited quantities. Suits may come and suits may go, but Grain-O goes on forever.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Pine Grove Park.

On Tuesday, June 22d, if present arrangements are carried out, a new resort will be opened to the public. It will be along the line of the Bellefonte Central railroad and at Pine Grove Mills. When opened to the public it will be known as Pine Grove Park. The Milesburg and Coleville bands, consolidated for the season of 1897, will hold a mammoth picnic there on that date.

It will be a musicians' day, as the above are not the only bands that will be there, five or six others having promised to be present. Besides this there will be hundreds there desirous to see the new park and enjoy the concerts, dancing, races, refreshments and everything else that picnicers can desire.

The consolidated Milesb Coleville bands, numbering about 40 men, will make a great band for this season. They are practicing together regularly now and when they turn out you can listen to some music that will be music.

The round trip fare from Bellefonte will be only 40 cents for adults and 20 cents for children and trains will be run to McCoy's works to accommodate the Milesburg people who will attend.

A Canine Time Teller.

There is a dog at Paris, Texas, that can tell the time of day and call his master for breakfast every morning. He belongs to H. C. Peterson, a workman in the cottonseed mill at Paris. It is Nick's duty, besides waking his master in the morning, to take his dinner to him in a little pail every day. Should Mrs. Peterson by any mischance overlook the matter, the dog is sure to remind her in proper time by bringing the pail to her and urging her to fill it. At first it was supposed to be the dog's intuition which enabled him to know the hour, but he has many times been seen watching the clock, and once, when Mrs. Peterson set the hands ahead to test the matter, Nick brought the dinner pail promptly on the stroke of 12, although in reality it was only 11 o'clock.—Kansas Farmer.

Don't Forget.

Children, and especially grown people, who should know better, who oftentimes desecrate graves by the removal of flowers and plants, should keep in mind the act of Assembly governing such misdemeanors. For their benefit we quote it: "Any person who shall wilfully and maliciously injure, destroy or remove any fence, railing or other work for the protection of ornament of a cemetery, or maliciously destroy any trees or shrubbery growing in such cemetery or graveyard, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction of either of the said offenses be sentenced to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding one year, or to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or both, or either, at the discretion of the Court."

Here Are New Officers.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 27.—At a mass meeting of students held today Benjamin J. Wilson, '98, of Clarion, Pa., and Bruce Bedford, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., were elected manager and assistant manager, respectively, of the base ball association for the season of 1898.

President Patton addressed the meeting in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and invited the undergraduates to a reception to be given at President Patton's home at Prospect to-morrow.

Pardons Recommended.

HARRISBURG, May 27.—The board of pardons recommended pardons to-day for Jeremiah Rosenberger, Armstrong, larceny; Frederick Stobe, Lancaster, larceny; August Kline, Lancaster, larceny; Martin Zeigler, Schuylkill, murder second degree, and W. H. Forsyth, false pretense.

Pardons were refused Joseph Miller, Philadelphia, larceny; F. P. Devine, Schuykill, conspiracy. The case of Albert C. Von Neida, Philadelphia, murder, was continued, and rehearings were granted in the cases of Anthony Burba, Schuylkill, assault and battery and Nicholas Walther, Philadelphia, assault and battery.

Hows This for Bicycle Ride.

Arthur and Will Penrose, of Philadelphia, left that city at six o'clock Monday morning May 24th, on an Orient tandem bicycle. The first day they rode to Harrisburg, a distance of 116 miles, and remained there all day, Tuesday. They reached State College Thursday remaining there until 5 o'clock in the evening. Passed through Bellefonte later stopping long enough to take lunch at the popular restaurant of John Anderson, and continuing on to Lock Haven. They expected to reach Philadelphia by way of Williamsport and Wilkesbarre, on Saturday night.

Arrested on Suspicion.

On Friday morning about 11 o'clock a young man named Frank Steward was arrested as a suspicious character and lodged in jail. Steward has been stopping at the Brant House for the past two weeks and claims to hail from Pittsburg. It is said he also pretended to be a private detective, sent here to look up the cause of the recent fires.

On the night of the fire at the armory it was he who ran into the Electric Light house and gave the alarm, saying that he had caught the man who was setting the fires. He then disappeared and was not seen until the next day. Ever since then he has been under police surveillance. On Friday morning they had reason to fear that Steward intended to leave and it was thought best to place him under arrest as a suspicious character, until the matter could be investigated.

Ascension Day.

Thursday was Ascension Day and it was observed with appropriate services in the Episcopal and Catholic churches in this place.

It commemorates the anniversary of the ascension of Christ. In all the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches the festival is kept with appropriate and elaborate ceremonies. The feast comes 40 days after Easter, and it is peculiar to observe the 40 days prior to Easter as the penitential season of Lent. Advent, too, which precedes Christmas, lasts 40 days.

Honored Roosevelt.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., May 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, first assistant secretary of the navy to-day inspected the works of the Bethlehem Iron conpany. Flags floated over the works in his honor. During his stay, Mr. Roosevelt was the guest of President Linderman. He was greatly pleased with the progress of the government contract work and the excellent facilities for turning out armor plate and guns.

A Large Tank.

Last week the Bellefonte Fuel & Supply Company, of which Joe Montgomery is manager, put in their oil house an oil tank that is about ten feet in diameter and about thirty-five feet in length. It is something immense and looks as though the company were going to supply their customers with oil through under ground pipes, the same as water from the reservoir. The tank is estimated to hold about 12,000 gallons. By getting it in such large quantities we ought to have cheaper oil.

THE farmers of Kansas have set out in the past few years 147,340 acres of forest. Among them are 11,500 acres of black walnut, 12,486 acres maple, 2,637 acres of honey locust, and 55,553 acres of cottonwood. The cottonwood grows the quickest and makes fuel for the farmer sooner than any of the others, hence his preference for it.

Well Mariar, said the old man as he got down from the wagon seat where he had been patiently waiting, did you see all the animals?

All but two, she said, with a sigh. I hunted the longest time, but I could't seem to find the canivora and the egress. I expect they was the best part of the show, too.

Information About Greece.

It has a population of 2,187,208.

It is called "Hellas" by its people.

The mean temperature of Greece is sixty four degrees Fahrenheit.

No part of Greece is forty miles from the sea or ten from the hills.

About one half of the population are agriculturists and shepherds.

It has an area of 24,977 square miles, little over half the size of Pennsylvania.

It is the only country in the world whose armies are provided with the Gras guns and paper-covered cartridges.

The Greek flag is a white cross on a blue ground—the Bavarian colors and the Greek cross.

Greece is one of the most thickly populated countries in Europe.

It has few rivers and many hills. None of the former is navigable, and many of the latter are fortified.

Its present boundary limits were determined by an arrangement among Great Britain, France, Russia, and Turkey, concluded at Constantinople on July 21, 1832.

Only about seventy thousand of the inhabitants speak any language other than Greek, and only about twenty thousand profess any religion other than orthodox.

The chief characteristics of the average Greek are his inquisitiveness, fondness for excitement, love of discussion, desire for knowledge, an aptitude for learning, and aggressive patriotism.

The climate has two striking peculiarities—the heat in summer and the cold in winter are far more intense than those of any other country in the world lying in the same latitude. Gell once remarked that in traveling through the Morea in March he found "summer in Messenia, spring in Laconia, and winter in Arcadia, without having moved beyond a radius of fifty miles."—New York Sun.

Tossed on the Foaming Billows

You may never have been, but if you cross the Atlantic, no matter how smooth the watery expanse, without sea sickness you are—well, a lucky voyager, that is all. Old tars who have spent their lives on the ocean waves, who were almost born, so to speak, with their "sea legs on," suffer now and then with sea sickness in very tempestuous weather. Sea captains, tourists, commercial travelers and yatchsmen say that there is no finer safe guard against nausea than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and it has been equally reliable as a preventive by invalids who travel by steamboat and railroad, and who sometimes suffer as much in those conveyances as ocean travelers do in steamships. Biliousness, constipation, sick headache and disorders of the stomach caused by oppressive climatic influences or unwholesome or unaccustomed food or water, always yield to the Bitters speedily. This popular medicine also remedies rheumatic, kidney and nervous disorders, and the infirmaties incident to increasing years.

Bride Occupies a Cell With Him.

Norfolk, Va., May 28.— W. Frank Wilson, alias Knocks Sykes, a young married man, is in a rather unpleasant predicament for a tender bridegroom. As he was boarding the train with his bride at Hickory Grove station, on the Norfolk and Southern Railway, a detective from this city arrested him on the charge of stealing a bicycle from the Merrimac club, of Norfolk. He was brought here, and his young wife, refusing to part from him, occupied the sell with him.

She says she is sure it is all a mistake.

"DIRT DEFIES THE KING." THEN

SAPOLIO

IS GREATER THAN ROYALTY ITSELF.

—June completes the 134th volume of the oldest magazine in America. Godey was established in July, 1830; yet although old it is ever new.

The June issue is peculiar in several respects. It is a special fiction number and contains over 50 pages of new tales. Among these is a story, "Two Maids and a Man," illustrated throughout by photographs from living models. Among the other stories of note are: "A Proceeding in Ejectment," an up-to-date Western tale; "The Winning of Larchmont," a ghost story; "Flip," a story of two lovers; and "The Brown Rose." Several breezy short tales add interest to the issue.

The leading illustrated article is "A Street in Cairo," by Rev. F. E. Clark, who is traveling around the world for the Christian Endeavor.

Another very interesting feature is "French Opera in New Orleans," which tells of a phase of American stage life never yet described.

"Pottery in America," with photographs of the rare specimens owned by Dr. Edwin A. Barber, tells the history of America's pottery industries from the Colony days to the present time.

A charming topic is treated in "Our First Wild Flowers."

The Scrap-book (a new feature) gives some specimens of wit and humor from the pens of the newspaper poets.

Church at Bellwood Dedicated.

The members of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Bellwood on Sunday last dedicated their new place of worship. Bishop C. C. McCabe, of Galveston, Texas, assisted by the pastor, Rev. S. D. Wilson; Rev. J. A. Hartman, of the Lutheran church, Bellwood; Rev. Allen Rheu, Rev. J. B. Stein, Rev. E. M. Stevens, Rev. C. A. Walker and Rev D. S. Monroe, D. D., conducted the exercises, which were quite impressive.

The cost of the church building and parsonage was $17,000, all of which was subscribed at the services on Sunday, which is highly complimentary and gratifying to the congregation. The main building is 80x105 feet, the auditorium being 60 feet square and the Sunday school room 40x75, subdividing in six class rooms and so arranged that the entire space can be thrown into one room. The seating capacity of the edifice is 1,000. The parsonage, a ten-room building fitted up with all modern improvements, is connected with the main building.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Preparations were completed to-day for the visit of the president to the Nashville exposition on the 11th of next month, The start will be made from Washington on the morning of the 10th and the president will be accompanied by Secretary Alger and at least one other member of his cabinet, and by Secretary Porter and Mrs. Porter. The trip to Nashville will be made over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, while the Southern railway will bring the party back. A special train will be provided for the trip with a private car for the president, one of the finest dining cars on the road and in fact every facility for the comfort and safety of the distinguished party. The run is expected to occupy about twenty-four hours and an observation car will afford an opportunity for the party to see the beauties of the mountain region by daylight. An equally handsome train will be placed at the disposal of the presidential party by the Southern railway on the return journey. It is possible a stop may be made this way at Asheville.

Inhaled too Much Ether.

At Brockwayville Tuesday of last week the friends of Dr. F. G. Coffin becoming alarmed at his non appearance since Saturday, broke open the door of his bachelor apartments and found the physician dead in bed. An empty ether bottle was by his side and on his face was a cork saturated with the fluid. The physician had been in the habit of using ether to put him to sleep and it is supposed that he took an overdose.

He was the physician for Brock mines.

An Interesting Conversation.

From Answers.

Sir A. Sullivan went to see Rubinstein at his hotel in London. The Russian composer asked him to step out on the balcony and smoke a cigarette.

They sat down, twisted their cigarettes and puffed the blue clouds into the air. After a long pause Sir A. Sullivan observed:

"You are a great admirer of Beethoven, I presume?"

"Yes," said Rubinstein.

"And Wagner?"

"No," was the reply.

Not another word was spoken. They rocked themselves in their chairs and smoked away. After a long time Sullivan said:

"I think it is time for me to be going."

"Don't say so," said Rubinstein. "Stay a bit longer. It is so nice to talk to you."

Sullivan stayed and went on rocking himself into the small hours of the morning, when he got up and said:

"I must be off now; I think we have chatted long enough."

Rubinstein drew out his watch.

"Half-past 2," he said. "Strange how quick time flies in pleasant company."

Fish with Legs Found in Colorado.

From the Denver Republican.

Much consternation and still more wonder was created in the state house yesterday morning by the discovery in the office of Mrs. Martha A. Shute, secretary of the state board of horticulture, of an axolotl, or fish with legs, which had become metamorphosed into a salamander.

All kinds of theories to account for its presence there were broached during the day. Of these theories the strangest appears to be the most tenable. This is that the evoluted axolotl was taken up by evaporation from a mountain lake near the City of Mexico, where its species is most abundant, to come to earth again in Denver with Thursday afternoon's abnormally heavy rainfall. Yesterday morning, when Janitor Smith opened the windows in order to air the office against the arrival of Mrs. Shute, he beheld an object on the sill outside which caused him to spring back in horror. Squatted on the sill was a hideous, dirty-hued green and yellow reptile, about ten inches in length, with a head like that of a bulldog, an enormous mouth, wide open, six web-footed paws, and a tail that tapered to a lash, and was curled at the end.

Mormon Elders to Confer.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 28.—The first Mormon conference ever held in this section, and perhaps the most important one of this year east of Salt Lake City, will be in session Sunday and Monday next near Quincy, about fifteen miles north-east of Hagerstown The coming conference is intended to map out a more effective and more extensive campaign in Maryland and Virginia. Already fourteen elders are at Quincy. Most of them arrived recently. They always travel on foot and do their work very quietly. On Saturday the Mormon elders will visit Gettysburg battle-field and view the dedication exercises.

Farewell to the Evangelists.

The rally held at Hecla Park on Wednesday was probably the last chance the people of this vicinity will have of hearing Messrs. Weaver and Weeden for some time to come. Their tabernacle has been shipped to Philadelphia, where services will begin on June 6th.

The Lock Haven Express, in a very interesting account of the rally, among other things has the following to say:

After supper the meeting was held upon the green sward in front of the old mill, near the railroad. For an hour a most delightful song service and experience meeting was held, during which Misses Moore and Twitmyer, of Bellefonte, sang very sweetly "Jesus is Tenderly Calling Come Home," the entire assemblage joining in the chorus.

The little handful of women in Bellefonte, who called Brother Weaver to their city to speak at a meeting of their own, little dreamed of the good that would and did come of it, but God delights to use human instrumentalities to unfold His great plans, and the wave of repentance and salvation that has swept Bellefonte, Williamsport and this city since the little ball of faith was dropped will tell throughout eternity. God has greatly blessed the work of Evangelists Weaver, Weeden and Van Deventer in this locality and it is the prayer of the people, in whose hearts they will ever live, that their good works may follow them.

Death of Andrew C. Howley.

Andrew C. Howley, the third son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howley, of East Bishop street, died Thursday evening, May 27th, at 5:30 o'clock. He had been ill for more than a year with that dread scourge of our northern clime, consumption, contracted by his sedentary habits.

He was indeed a fine young man, honest and industrious. Graduating from the Bellefonte High School in 1886, he entered the employ of C. G. McMillen, then proprietor of the Brockerhoff House, as clerk, and by his faithful work and pleasing manners greatly endeared himself both to the traveling public and his employer. He was 27 years old and unmarried.

Two brothers and three sisters survive him, viz: Thomas F., William J., Jennie, Ellie and Mrs. Jas. McCafferty.

The funeral services were held in St. John's Catholic church, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Fisher—Zimmerman.

A pretty wedding took place, on Thursday, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Zimmerman, on East Lamb street, when her daughter, Mary C., was united in marriage to Elwood Fisher, of Unionville. Dr. Stephens, of the M. E. church performed the ceremony in the presence of quite a number of guests.

The bride is a bright and intelligent young lady and has been a successful teacher in Union township. The groom is the eldest son of William P. Fisher, of Unionville, and is himself a well-to-do, successful farmer.

Death of Mrs. David Lohr.

GAS NEAR HOWARD.

A Flow Found on the Tice Farm Friday.

Curtin Wetzel states that while digging a well on a farm about two miles above Howard Friday, they struck a flow of gas. The flow was reduced as much as possible, when it shot into the air.

Further inquiries have elicited the fact that the well was being drilled for water on the farm of Solomon Tice, about two miles from Howard, on the north side of Bald Eagle creek. Mr. Wetzel first discovered the presence of gas by detecting a faint odor. Mrs. Tice, who was in the house, also noticed the smell and inquired if anything was burning. The water in the well bubbled violently. Mr. Wetzel capped the well, and when he removed the cap ten minutes later, gas issued from the opening, making a hissing sound. However, the flow was immediately exhausted. The cap was again screwed on and when removed again after a short interval the same result was obtained. When a lighted paper was held over the opening and the cap removed a bluish flame shot up in the air, but immediately died away. The well is fifty feet deep. Mr. Wetzel intended putting in the pump Monday, but has postponed action until further investigation is made. Mr. Wetzel states that the local indications for gas in the vicinity are very strong.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Decoration Day at Howard.

The people of the pretty borough of Howard and the surrounding country are intelligent and patriotic citizens, consequently on every recurring Decoration Day there is a full turnout to do honor to the country's dead heroes.

Last Saturday flags and bunting could be seen on every building. In the morning the Post in a body went to Jacksonville and decorated the graves of the dead soldiers in the cemeteries of that place, after which several songs, appropriate to the occasion, were sung by the musicians of that place. Rev. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian congregation at that place, delivered an able and stirring patriotic address. At 2 p. m. the Post and the Odd Fellows, in uniform, took up their march for the Howard cemetery where, in company with the Sunday schools, the graves of the heroic dead were strewn with flowers in the presence of a large concourse of people.

After these ceremonies were over those present went into the M. E. church, where two able addresses were delivered, Hon. John A Woodward acting as master of ceremonies. The first address was delivered by A. A. Dale, Esq., of this place. Mr. Dale held the audience spell-bound for three-quarters of an hour. His address was brim full of patriotism, classical and eloquent, and considered by those present as the ablest ever delivered there on any former occasion. Rev. Messenger followed Mr. Dale in an able address on the moral line of thought, which evidenced the fact that the speaker was an able and logical patriotic theologian whose heart throbs for the welfare of all mankind.

His wheat clover and grass can't be surpassed. His fruit orchards hardly ever fail to produce an abundant yield his peach orchard if not the largest, is one of the largest in the county, and produces a fine quality of fruit. His two sons Charles and Frank, are excellent farmers and prefer that calling to any other, while Mrs. Daley, and her two comely daughters, are experts in housekeeping, butter making and preparing marketing of the choicest kind.
